Light without heat.
Omelette en Surprise.
Ostrich feathers are up.
Why keep 500,000 idle?
By Arthur Brisbane

The President, in a thought carefully worded, says: "We need light, not heat."
The sentence reads: "We need light not heat, in these solemn times of self-examination and saving action."
At the Boston Tea Party there was heat, and still more heat when Franklin, Jefferson and the others met in Philadelphia to sign the Declaration of Independence.
Heat and radiant light combined when Jesus scourged the money changers in the temple.
"And began to cast out them that sold and bought in the temple, and overthrew the tables of the money changers, and the seats of them that sold doves."
Christ on that occasion applied both heat and light and money changers topped over tables and scattered money in their hurry to get away. He did not choose gentle words:
"It is not written, My house shall be called of all nations the house of prayer? But ye have made it a den of thieves."
His kind of heat and light would do good to some gentleman that seek to build a den of thieves in a self-governing democracy.

What would happen if today Christ should repeat His energetic teaching in the Stock Exchange or Board of Trade. How long would it take to find a judge to sentence Him for 30 years?

Light without heat, the intense feeling that changes thought into action, does not take men far.
Dante put the thing well six hundred years ago:
"Give light and the people will find their way."

The wise old Florentine knew that COLD light would not do the work. He said also:
"Work as Nature works, in fire."
Light without heat has long been the dream of science. But it is realized only in the body of the firefly. And even there slight heat accompanies the feeble light production.

Light that guides the people on their way is supplied by public anger. Unless you burn as you work, unless the blood goes to your brain and stays there until the job is done, people that come after you won't know or care what you did.

All this President Wilson knows well. His nature reverses the omelette en surprise, red hot on the outside, with ice cream inside.

The president, cold outside, often boils with rage within.
If Mr. Wilson could meet Lodge and Brand in a wild wood, throw down his coat and say like the old Quaker "Dignified Professor Wilson, lie there," there would be a cave-man fight worth going to see.

The president's concrete suggestion for lowering the cost of food would be a law compelling interstate commerce shippers to mark on packages the actual price charged by the producer.

This, you may say, would enable consumers to know what profits the retailer makes. But it would NOT let the consumer know, for how could he calculate the "overhead" expense of the retailer, his rent, his wages, his insurance and his losses? And what is a fair profit? If a man and his wife and daughter spend their lives running a little neighborhood store in which they sell five thousand dollars' worth of goods in a year—as many do—they must make 40 per cent profit, or live on less than $600 each year, including heat, light and rent.

It is not easy to make suggestions that will end high prices. It is, however, possible to make moral reflections, urging wisdom, economy, honesty and moderation in business. All this the president does, eloquently.

Mr. Wilson says he will consider suggestions. Here's one: Persuade your Secretary of War, Mr. Baker, to give up his plan to keep 500,000 men in a permanent army. Such a standing army, in peace, would withdraw half a million men from useful work and compel others to feed, clothe, house and pay the half-million, producing nothing.

You would denounce Rockefeller if he kept two thousand servants idle, non-productive, when twenty would be enough. Government should not

NEW YORK IS THREATENED WITH A COMPLETE TIE-UP OF RAPID TRANSIT

(ASSOCIATED PRESS DISPATCH)
NEW YORK, Aug. 16.—Rejecting a ten per cent. increase in wages as insufficient and demanding a flat increase of 50 per cent. the employees of the Interborough Rapid Transit company today threatened to tie up elevated and subway lines operated in the most densely populated sections of the Greater City, at 4 a. m. tomorrow, unless their demands are granted.

The Interborough system covers Manhattan, the Bronx and parts of Queens and Brooklyn. The only hope of averting the threatened walkout of the Interborough trainmen, who are organized as the Brotherhood of Interborough Rapid Transit Employees, was an agreement by the board of estimate to grant the proposal of the Interborough company to increase its fares.

At a stormy meeting yesterday at City Hall between Mayor Hylan and members of the executive committee of the brotherhood, Patrick J. Connelly, an elevated train motorman, who headed the delegation, left the meeting, declaring that he had been insulted by the mayor's insinuations that the brotherhood was a tool of the Interborough officials in a conspiracy to increase fares. The trainmen, however, were prevailed upon to attend the conference this afternoon and present their case. The brotherhood was organized in 1916 with the aid of officials of the employing company and has no affiliations with the International Order of Street and Electric Railway Employees, that conducted the strike in Brooklyn recently.

"Job" is Alleged.
The action of the mayor in denouncing the strike order as an "inside job," and the announcement by District Attorney Swann, that he had started an investigation, at the mayor's request, to discover if there was a conspiracy on the part of the company and its employees to gain increased fares, caused general doubt that today's conference would result in an amicable settlement.

Mayor Hylan also indicated that the situation was almost hopeless by calling a conference last night of the heads of the police department traffic divisions and the Brooklyn commissioner of public works, to map out routes and arrange for motor bus lines to take care of the crowds if the tie-up became effective.

TO HEAR SHOPMEN.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 16.—With the last of the railroad shopmen, thousands of whom have been on strike since August 1, expected to return to work today, the railroad administration prepared to take up the demands of the men for increased wages.

Negotiations for a new wage agreement were made conditional upon the men's returning to work by President Wilson in his letter last week to Director General Hines. Mr. Hines has not indicated how settlement of the shopmen's demands would be made, holding that first the workers should again take up their jobs. The railroad administration board of wages and working conditions, which had the shopmen's demands for a 25 per cent. increase before it since last February, gave a divided decision July 16.

STRIKE AT LOS ANGELES.

LOS ANGELES, Calif., Aug. 16.—Motormen and conductors employed by the Pacific Electric Railway company and the Los Angeles Railway company went on strike at 2 o'clock this morning for higher wages in compliance with an order issued yesterday by an employee's committee calling on the men to walk out. Crews of the "owl" cars of the Los Angeles Railway company were ordered to work through until morning.

The Los Angeles Railway company operates exclusively in the city while the Pacific Electric lines run to many towns within a radius of 60 miles.

HOPE AT PITTSBURGH.

PITTSBURGH, Aug. 16.—Hopes that the strike of 3,000 motormen and conductors of the Pittsburgh street railway company which has tied up transportation here since Thursday midnight would be settled within a few days were entertained, following a conference this morning between the receivers of the company, representatives of the strikers and Mayor E. V. Babcock. A settlement of the wage dispute by compromise was proposed.

The compromise figure mentioned is a nine cents an hour increase. The receivers have been firm in their stand of a six cents an hour increase, recently awarded the trolley men by the national war labor board, while the carmen stick to their original demand of 12 cents an hour.

three hours, former Empress Zita, who was present finally said:

"I have had enough talking, gentlemen, Hofburg was hell for us. We have done our duty to the end and we have offered enough. 'I' return is an impossibility."

ERZBERGER DEFIANT.

WEIMAR, August 16.—Mathias Erzberger, vice premier and minister of finance, in a sharp reply to German nationalists, declared today it was his intention to remain in office as long as he had the confidence of the majority of the national assembly.

GOLD STOLEN FROM MILL.

CRIPPLE CREEK, Colo., Aug. 18.—The Independent Mill at Victor, Colo., one of the largest gold mills in this section of the west, was looted. The bandits overpowered two watchmen and escaped with a quantity of gold concentrate. The watchmen are in a hospital at Victor. No estimate of the amount of loot has been made.

IRISH UPRISINGS QUELLED BY THE ENGLISH TROOPS

(ASSOCIATED PRESS DISPATCH)
BELFAST, Aug. 16.—Ten nationalist excursionists were injured during a fight Friday with orangemen at Lisburn, County Down. Serious rioting also occurred at Coal Island County Tyrone.

LONDONDERRY, Aug. 16.—Rioting and looting occurred in this city during the past night and early this morning. Troops charged on mobs but did not fire any shots. The soldiers, however, were met with a volley of stones when they attempted to break up a nationalist demonstration. The monetary loss from looting and from damage to property is estimated at thousands of pounds by police authorities.

The trouble started when nationalists set fire to a large number of tar barrels which had been collected beneath an arch over which was displayed a picture of Edward De Valera, president of the Irish republic, and sang the "Soldiers' Song." Unionists responded by singing the national anthem.

One force of troops kept the crowds apart, while other detachments attempted to clear the streets, charging upon the throngs repeatedly. Bricks and stones were hurled at the charging troops, one soldier being seriously hurt. The nationalists were finally driven back to their own quarters.

Windows were smashed and shops were looted by the crowds, and the city was in darkness the entire night. More rioting is feared tonight.

FIRST DIVISION IS HOMEWARD BOUND FROM GERMAN SOIL

(ASSOCIATED PRESS DISPATCH)
COBLENZ, Aug. 16.—The American first division, the first division to land in France and the captors of Cantigny, will begin leaving the Rhine for home today. The taking of Cantigny, in the Montdidier sector, was made in the first attack by an American division on the western front. It is expected that all the troops to leave will have arrived at Brest within a week.

The Coblenz bridgehead which has been held by the first division since the departure of the second, now will be taken care of by French troops and the eighth infantry regiment of the American army which will remain on the Rhine probably for several years. The eighth infantry occupies the southern half of the bridgehead, which has been under American control since last December 13, when the first American troops crossed the Rhine.

The Americans will retain control of Coblenz, of the fortress of Ehrenbreitstein and of the Castle of Mollerberg, the outer most post of the bridgehead.

Many Warrants are to be Served on Accused Violators Saturday—Trials are to be Pushed at Once.

(By Associated Press.)
COLUMBUS, O., Aug. 16.—Federal, state and county authorities are co-operating in an effort to clean Ohio of food profiteers, throw surplus food stocks held in cold storage on the market and reduce the high cost of living.

Many arrests as a result of warrants issued yesterday are expected to be made today and, following announcement of United States Attorney General Palmer that federal district attorneys in the state had been ordered to carry out Governor Cox's plans for seizing food, it is expected that action will be taken today in the federal courts to obtain control of millions of pounds of meat and other cold storage food.

District Attorney Wertz at Cleveland is expected to enter the federal courts today, seeking authority to seize more than 2,000,000 pounds of meat in Cleveland belonging to three big Chicago packing companies. In accordance with Governor Cox's statement last evening, additional arrests under the state cold storage law are expected today.

With many additional arrests expected today and early next week, it became known today that alleged food hoarders and profiteers arrested yesterday on state warrants at the instigation of Governor Cox, will be brought to trial almost immediately. Columbus food dealers arrested yesterday were given preliminary hearings in municipal court here today and over the protests of their attorneys, their trials were set for next Wednesday. All of the men pleaded not guilty. Attorney General Price personally represented the state. Attorneys for the dealers stated that it would be almost impossible to prepare for such an early trial.

Cox's Food Probe.

In his telegram to Mr. Palmer the Governor dwells on the illegal practices by which meats were shipped back and forth to defeat the law. To what extent this practice was carried on is not disclosed by the executive because of lack of definite information.

The telegram follows:
"I beg to advise you of the illegal storage of fresh meats and poultry in this state. The owners, locations and approximate amounts are as follows: Sheriff Street Market House, Cleveland, Ohio, 2,000,000 pounds; Swift & Co., Toledo, Ohio, 300,000 pounds; Swift & Co., Cleveland, Ohio, 100,000 pounds, and Swift & Co., Cincinnati, 20,000 pounds.

"The ownership of the 2,000,000-pound lot in Cleveland also is with Morris & Co., Wilson & Co. and Brant & Co. These foodstuffs have been held more than the period prescribed by the Ohio statutes. Under our laws meats held in storage more than six months cannot be sold. The prohibitive period with butter is nine months; eggs and poultry 10 months.

"You will observe, therefore, that under our limitations these supplies cannot be sold by the owners, but they should be placed upon the market in order to meet the deficit which the packing and cold storage concerns deliberately have made by hoarding.

"Our investigation shows unmisgivable evidence not only of willful violation and defiance of law on the part of the large packing houses particularly, but we have discovered that food supplies have been shipped from Chicago to Cleveland, returned again to Chicago and re-shipped to Cleveland.

Alleged Policy Assailed.
"To what extent this policy has been carried on we do not know but

CAR SERVICE TO BE CUT

COLUMBUS, Aug. 16.—As a result of the defeat here Tuesday of the six-tickets-for-a-quarter street car ordinance, restricted service will be established by the company in an endeavor to weather the financial storm which has been raging around it.

Keep idle 500,000 men when 200,000 would be plenty.

England has decided that the law of supply and demand, so much talked about, is an exploded theory. It goes into the discard with "Competition is the life of trade."

Old-fashioned methods, moralizing, appeals to man's better nature will not take care of the situation.

After the fire in San Francisco the only thing was to tear away and rebuild. It was done.

FORMER EMPEROR ASKED TO RETURN

(ASSOCIATED PRESS DISPATCH)
PARIS, Aug. 16.—Dignitaries of the former Austrian regime have reiterated their requests that former Emperor Charles assume an active part in Austrian affairs, according to a dispatch received here from Zurich. It is said that the former monarch was sounded on the subject before Archduke Joseph seized control at Budapest.

The last discussion is reported to have been quite long, emissaries attempting to show the erstwhile emperor and king that the archduke's assumption of power in Hungary made his chances brighter but he was reluctant to consent and no decision was reached. After the conference had lasted for

It is the part of a policy framed and shaped by the Chicago packers for the double purpose of deceiving the authorities in Ohio and Illinois and of keeping food necessities off the market in order that deficiency and higher prices might come together.

In behalf of the public interest, not only urge upon you to seize this food at once, but suggest that you receive from the authorities of this state evidence now in hand upon which I believe criminal prosecution can be had against the executive heads of the large packing corporations, who certainly are responsible for the artful and unlawful practice of destroying in the first instance the supply of food and then defrauding the consumers.

Charges are Denied

CANTON, O., Aug. 16.—Charges of hoarding sugar are denied by the Canton Storage and Transfer Company officials. The denial came today after the announcement by the district attorney's office in Cleveland that a deputy marshal had been sent here last night to seize 200,000 pounds of hoarded sugar this morning. The transfer company named has been the agent of the C. D. Kneeney Company, Baltimore, according to announcement of the county prosecutor and the Cleveland district attorney's office.

Investigation at the plant this morning failed to disclose any large supply of sugar.

Thomas C. Gault, chief of the dairy and food bureau of the department of agriculture was engaged today in preparing and sending out affidavits against individuals and corporations named in the list of alleged violators given out yesterday by Governor Cox.

Deputy Inspector Arthur McWilliams of the dairy and food bureau will go to Cincinnati tomorrow to file affidavits in the municipal court there Monday against Cincinnati men, alleged to have violated the cold storage laws.

ACTION AT CINCINNATI.

CINCINNATI, Aug. 16.—The serving of warrants on four Cincinnati men who are charged with violations of the cold storage regulations on orders issued from Governor Cox's office yesterday are expected to be made here Monday.

The grand jury was convened today, an unusual procedure, so it could take proper action if necessary. County Prosecutor Capello was to confer during the day with Governor Cox over long distance telephone regarding co-operation between state department of agriculture and the Hamilton county grand jury. The agricultural department is supposed to enforce the cold storage regulations.

LEAVE NOT LEMING

Residing in this country since Mar. 5, 1906, Abraham Levine, a former of Harrod, today filed his first naturalization papers in common pleas court. He was born in Hoorusk, Russia, and sailed for this country from Antwerp, Belgium, on the steamship Westerland, arriving in New York, Mar. 5, 1906.

ARE YOU A WOMAN?

Women suffer more than men from far-sight. This is probably due to their spending so much time indoors in work requiring near vision. Neglected this will cause untold agony, nervousness and at times a total breakdown. Every woman should have her eyes examined to see whether or not she needs glasses.

By the use of temporary glasses young people avoid the use of permanent glasses in later years.

LIVING COST IS 80 PER CENT MORE THAN BEFORE WAR

Greatest Increase Found in Clothing and House Furnishings

FIGURES FROM CITIES

Family Budgets Show a Rise as High as 157 Per Cent

WASHINGTON, Aug. 16.—General increases of about 80 per cent in the cost of living during the period from December 1914 to June 1919, were shown in tables made public here today by the department of labor. The tables were based on investigations in various representative cities over the country in every instance greater increases were recorded in the prices of food and clothing, without considering other items in family budgets, showed enormous increases from December 1914 to June 1919, the advance in the case of Chicago being 157.07 per cent. In the same items went up 125 per cent. In Detroit, 125 per cent. In Cleveland, 140 per cent. In Buffalo, 103 per cent. In Portland, 103 per cent. In Philadelphia, 128 per cent. In Baltimore, 104 per cent. In Norfolk, 146 per cent. In Savannah, 133 per cent. In Jacksonville, 93 per cent. In Mobile, 135 per cent. In Houston, Texas, 115 per cent. In Portland, Oregon, 110 per cent. In Seattle, 123 per cent. In Los Angeles, 134 per cent. In San Francisco and Oakland, Calif.

Smaller increases in such things as housing, fuel and light and miscellaneous items lowered the general average increase. General per cent increases being as follows:

Portland, Maine 71, Boston 72, New York 79, Philadelphia 76, Baltimore 83, Norfolk 87, Savannah 79, Jacksonville 74, Mobile 76, Houston 80, Portland, Oregon 69, Seattle 74, Los Angeles 65, San Francisco and Oakland 65, Chicago 74, Detroit 84, Cleveland 77 and Buffalo 84. In all instances the increase in clothing prices were greater than any other item.

Percentages for the period December 1917, to June 1919 for the two items, food and clothing for other cities show increases as follows:

Atlanta 40, Birmingham 19, Cincinnati 48, Denver 55, Indianapolis 10, Kansas City 44, Memphis 35, Minneapolis 40, New Orleans 48, Pittsburgh 17, Richmond 42, St. Louis 39 and Scranton 41.

As in the case of the longer period, the general percentages were somewhat lowered by slight increases in the cost of other necessities.

General increase percentages follow:

Atlanta 29, Birmingham 19, Cincinnati 21, Denver 25, Indianapolis 21, Kansas City 20, Memphis 23, Minneapolis 18, New Orleans 20, Pittsburgh 21, Richmond 20, St. Louis 17, Scranton 23.

CANDIDATES MUST FILE REPORTS OF PRIMARY EXPENSES

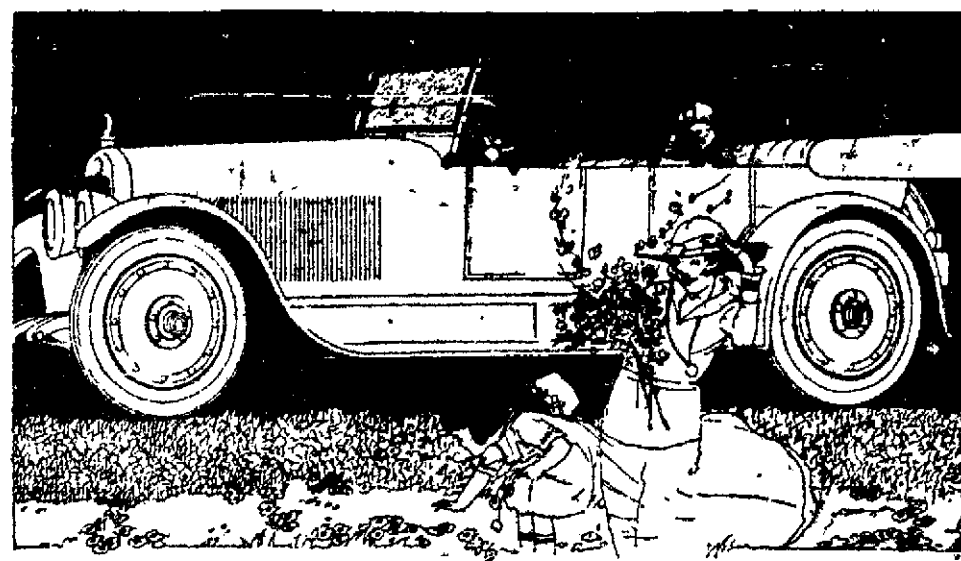

Candidate seeking the nomination of various offices at the recent primary election have six more days in which to file their expenses in their recent race. The last day in which to file is August 22 according to A. J. Morris, clerk of the board of elections.

Up to today there have been seven candidates filed. Of this number only two have spent anything in the race. Lloyd Brown, a William Turner, J. P. Hamilton, Charles Block and C. W. Webster, stated their race cost them nothing.

R. R. Truex, republican candidate for judge of the common pleas court, filed the first with $10.50 expended. This includes cuts cards and newspaper advertisements. Frank Burkhardt, democratic candidate for mayor, spent $2 for his nomination in the way of advertisements, he declared.

PARTITION SUIT

Alberta Harrison, today in common pleas court, filed a partition suit against A. J. Hicks of Buxton town and The Citizens' Building and Loan Company. She asks that a piece of property on Foster street near Elm street be divided and she be given her share.

Imagine A Car Like This

JORDAN has always had a distinct aversion to the commonplace—the obvious. He believes in more gaiety and less drabness in motor cars.

So the Jordan Silhouette was produced.

Sturdy, graceful, long, low and colorful. Solid aluminum rattle-proof body. New European, wide-opening doors. Mouldings of rectangular design. The newest French angle at the dash.

Cocky seat cowl. Perfectly flat top-edge, without the slightest bevel—certainly most refreshing in these days.

Deep-section full crown fenders—slightly taller hood—tilted sport type windshield—deep soft seats that permit you to sink down into them at a perfect comfort angle—gun-metal instrument board—non-rattling spring shackles—tailored top—cordovan leather boot-and-saddle bag built into the tonneau.

Imagine a car like this—Picture it as it is—the lightest car on the road for its wheelbase—and the best balanced.

The whole tendency of the Jordan Silhouette is toward forward movement.

It is perfectly balanced—a car to ride in, as well as to look at.

The chassis, including all the finest universally approved mechanical units, possesses a factor of safety which is sufficient to more than meet every possible strain—and little detailed improvements have been made that give it a new superiority.

Imagine a car like this—and you see the Jordan Silhouette. Finished in Brewster Green or Burgundy Old Wine. Equipped with either four or seven passenger bodies.

AMERICAN BUYERS DEMANDING LONGER SKIRTS FOR WOMEN AT THE REVIVED PARIS STYLE SHOW

PARIS, Aug. 16.—Paris first real effort to preserve the soft contour of the styles since the war has been being attended by about 100 American buyers, who, however are showing themselves to be more independent of the dictates of French dress-makers than ever before.

Brown, according to the new Paris is again in marked favor. Soft materials are used generally and flounces, panniers and the design of the new models tend toward the strictly feminine appearance. There is not the slightest suggestion of the masculine tailor made effects of the past.

Paris is clinging to skirts hanging seven to eight inches from the ground. American buyers the dress-makers say are ridiculing the shortness of the gowns although frankly admitting American skirts have been too long. It is said to be likely American women will be offered a compromise in lengths. One of the prominent American buyers said today that "no well formed woman looks well in a really long skirt and it cannot be graceful" but he laughed at a dress-maker's suggestion Americans want long skirts because American women do not have pretty ankles.

American women have the world's ankles and feet in the world. The buyer replied "and they also are the best shod but they are tired that the extremely short skirts are ridiculed and they behave in moderate lengths."

Although the Americans designed their own styles to a great extent during the war they apparently are finding much that is worth while in the Paris display rooms although viewing things from a newly independent point of view.

Passport difficulties it was said kept the number of American buyers from being much larger.

The buyers have been busy all this week viewing the new models and they will continue to attend displays next week when some of the most important firms will show their winter styles. Brown seems to be the prevailing color the buyers say and is shown in scores of various shades—brick, terra cotta and burnt sienna. There also are shown soft shades of gray and blue tints of beige and moles.

Scores of the beautiful models who are displaying gowns in the drawing room of the hotel de la Madeleine do not wear corsets and make every

GEORGE J. DUFFEY SUDDENLY CALLED IN LIFE'S PRIME

Hundreds of friends of George J. Duffey, superintendent of motive power of the Lake Erie railway, was shocked to learn of his death which occurred about 7:15 o'clock Saturday morning at his home, 340 South Atlantic avenue. Mr. Duffey had been in failing health for several weeks, but this week had felt much better, and returned to the office for a few hours each day. During the night, however, he was stricken with an attack of heart trouble which finally caused his death.

The deceased was respected and admired by all who knew him, and his passing is a source of grief to his family and many friends. Mr. Duffey was 55 years of age at the time of his death. He had been a resident of Lima for the past eleven years, coming here from Canada.

He was a prominent member of the Knights of Columbus, the Lima Rotary club, the Chamber of Commerce, the Western Railway club, of Chicago, and the Association of Master Mechanics. He was a devout member of St. John's Catholic church where funeral services will be held the first of the week at a time to be announced later.

LOST BOYS FOUND

The two boys, Roland Baker, 15, of Sidney and Lester Learned, 15, of Wapakoneta, who were arrested here last night as they alighted from a Western Ohio Interurban car were turned over to the juvenile authorities and later delivered to their respective parents.

Barker has been visiting the Learned lad in Wapakoneta and they took French leave. Local authorities were immediately notified and picked the youngsters up.

FILES CROSS PETITION.

In common pleas court this morning Margaret Roberts filed a cross petition to the divorce suit filed some time ago against her by William Roberts. She avers he has been guilty of gross neglect of duty, and says that while under the influence of intoxicating liquors has sworn at her and called her vile names.

She asks that the divorce be granted her and her maiden name, Margaret Crider be restored to her.

Of Interest to Taxi Operators

The following in reference to the automobile tax has been issued by the internal revenue office. Persons carrying on the business of operating or renting passenger automobiles for hire shall pay $10 for each automobile having a seating capacity of more than two, and not more than seven, and $20 for each such automobile having a seating capacity of not more than seven.

Penalty for evasion of this law is a $1,000 fine or imprisonment for one year or both. Pay auto tax to S. P. Herr, internal revenue collector second floor of Lima post-office building.

Doing Without
ONE OF THE greatest and most wholesome lessons of our war experience, speaking as a people, was that which came with the observance of "less" days when the world was calling upon us for food. We learned the tremendous lesson of "doing without." Nobody really suffered from this denial. In fact, there is little doubt but that all of us gained, not only morally, but physically and financially. With the ending of the emergency, naturally enough, the reaction came; instead of "doing without" we went rather to the other extreme and removed the limits from our indulgence. Restraint, in a great many cases, has given way to license.

It has occurred to us, as doubtless it has occurred to many people, that the greatest weapon available in the fight against profiteering and abnormal living costs may be found in the lesson we learned under stress of necessity—"doing without." What would be the effect on the price of provisions if the whole community should go back, for a certain number of days per week, to the diet imposed by the food administration during the war days? Would meat rise or fall if every household in the country should resume the observance of two or three meatless days each week?

The opportunity of the profiteer is largely in the laxness of the purchaser. High wages and general prosperity enhance this opportunity. The price of a basket of fruit may irritate us, but we buy. Roasting ears seem exorbitant, but we refuse to accept boiling meat. Roasting ears may be outrageously high, but we grumble and take them. The profiteer knows his victim; he is well aware of the customer's inability to say no.

The lack of variation in prices on meats and provisions seems to justify the conclusion that the dealers, if not thoroughly organized are at least working by "gentlemen's agreement." Competition would at least permit the reduction of prices on perishable stuffs instead of permitting the consignment to the garbage dump. The law may take care of this sort of practices, but again it may not; mere assumptions, even reasonable convictions, do not imply legal proof. But it is possible and entirely practicable for the consumer to meet this organized hold-up by the expedient of "doing without." When profiteering is made unprofitable it will cease—temporarily at least.

If Lima wants to witness a real drop in food prices—wants to badly enough to undergo a little inconvenience and denial to bring it about—there is no simpler, easier way of gaining that result than by cutting down to the absolute minimum their purchases of goods which are the subject of price robbery. This can be done without legislation, without waiting for grand jury action or without resort to mob violence. If the consumers should work together for one month, as harmoniously as the dealers something would "drop" in the camp of the profiteers mightily suddenly.

The Fellow Who Gets Along Best

THE WORLD is full of distress and trouble and uncertainty and anxiety—and it always has been. Possibly there is more of it now than is usual, but the fact is we have always had something to worry about. But the fellow who gets along best is the one who works most and attends to his own business.

The busiest man in any shop or factory is generally the one who succeeds to the greatest degree. The fellow who goes home from work and finds something to do about the home isn't disturbed about "the outlook" like the one who stops at the street corner to discuss affairs with idlers. Men become leaders of men by attending to their own business and putting in long hours.

We are going to come through the present troubled condition of the world all right; we always have. There are a good many unhoped-of things happening; there are conditions the like of which we may not have had to face in the past. But there is more good common sense in the world now than there has ever been and it will save the day.

Whatever befalls us from the present uncertainty, whatever comes upon the world through the agitation that is prevailing, it is as certain as that the sun will rise tomorrow that the man who works most and attends to his own business will get along the best.

Paris Waiters

THE PARIS waiters want the tipping system abolished, and are going to strike to enforce their demands. They want a percentage of the receipts, instead of tips—which doesn't mean that the patron is going to be relieved to any extent, for the patron will have to pay an additional cost for service, so the landlord may get as much as he formerly received after paying the waiter's percentage. No matter what the demands of waiters, either in this country or in Europe, it is all the same to the patron; he pays.

The tipping system is bound to end, however, all over the world, for it is an unnatural process of paying for service. When a man enters a dining-room and is served with food, it is worth so much. The amount he pays is supposed to cover the expense of the meal, and it ought to cover it. To pay the landlord a certain amount for the food, and the waiter a certain amount for serving it, is the height of folly.

But the worst feature of tipping is that it leaves to the insolence of the waiter or to the generosity of the patron to fix the amount. There is nothing standard about it, as there ought to be. The fellow who is liberal in his expenditures ought not to be taxed any more than the "tight wad," and the insolent waiter who has the facility for extracting large tips is no more entitled to them than the modest fellow who uses no arts in separating patrons from their coin.

The Times' Family Doctor
JUST HOW YOU SHOULD USE ACETANILID TO RELIEVE PAIN

By DR. LEONARD KEENE HIRSHBERG
A. B., M. A., M. D. (John Hopkins University)

Almost 50 years ago some Conrad de Leon of his youth, some Ponce de Leon after an elixir of life, initiated a search for an improved quinine, built up in his laboratory a colorless, glistening, odorless, crystalline material called anti-febrin or acetanilid. It was patented for 17 years and only for the last 20 odd years has this boon been free to all to manufacture at will.

The actual value of acetanilid is established by long usage by the best men of the medical world. It is a proved agency in the reduction of fevers and a sedative to the emotions, the nerves, an excited heart and muscle generally.

There are few known chemicals which will relieve pain more swiftly and effectively. Within the hour a small amount of acetanilid, combined with some co-operative chemical, is taken, fever subsides, pains and aches disappear.

While you await the arrival of your physician who is to spend hours of labor and knowledge to diagnose and find the cause of your ailment, a drink of some effervescent combination of acetanilid in which this medicine is reinforced and protected with citrate of soda, bromides and bicarbonate of soda will relieve sharp suffering, stave off fever, and otherwise give you comfort and peace. The doctor, meanwhile, will be in no way interfered with.

Quinine, aspirin, phenacetin and a lot of other vegetable and coal tar drugs are difficult and dangerous to take. Quinine is especially bitter. The others are particularly depressing.

Acetanilid, to be sure, is also a coal tar extract to be handled with more caution and respect than with confidence. Like the others, it may cause too much depression of the muscles, blood and other tissues. It should be taken only as advised by your physician.

Acetanilid produces sleep, calmness, irritability, is somewhat disinfectant and destructive of bacteria, cools the skin and lowers the temperature. Perspiration and the kidney fluids are increased much to the advantage of the thick overcrowded human fabric.

When all is said and done a glass of some established combination of acetanilid in effervescent form will do much to relieve mortal man of many pains.

Answers to Health Questions.

A CONSTANT READER Q—What can I do for nervousness?

A—The treatment is diversion: attention transferred and directed into new channels, new friends, new hobbies, new friends, new rooms, new nations, everything radically altered and wholly different will in time relieve almost all such conditions.

G. G. M. Q—What can I do for most eczema?

A—Apply a little of the following to the affected parts each night:
Oil of cade 2 drams
S. liebie acid 15 drams
C. thioic acid 15 drops
lanolin 1 ounce
Petrolatum 1 ounce

S. B. A. If you will send a stamped self-addressed envelope with your query repeated I will be glad to answer your questions.

Short Stories of the Buckeye State

PIONEER DIVERSIONS IN OHIO

The early settlers of Ohio combined work and pleasure in a way that softened hard lines of pioneer days, giving zest to life and getting needed labor performed at the same time. Working collectively they secured an esprit du corps, and injected into their enterprises the life that comes from competition. The clearing of the land was the first work of the settler, and when he had cut down the trees and chopped them into sections, he held his "log rolling" around all his neighbors from far and near to help him roll the sections into heaps for burning.

When the framework of his buildings was ready to be put into place they came again to the "ralsing." When the crops matured there were cradling and corn husking parties. In the fall great kettles of apple butter were to be made and to prepare the apples for the cider in which they were boiled the "apple paring" was held.

In the spring the "sheep shearing" came, and when destructive wild things proved menaces to the crops a hunt in which all took part and contested for the honor of being the best shot, reduced that source of danger to the thrifty to a negligible point.

The thrifty housekeeper from time to time, put a quilt that she had "pieced" into the frames and invited the women of the neighborhood in to help her complete it, and sitting round the frames busy with their needles, they had the best of times, the hostess busy between the quilting room and the kitchen where a fine dinner was in preparation.

They introduced the same feature in their education with the spelling school their singing school and the singing geography school. The latter is an institution that few now living recall. The leader set the principal facts of geography to some simple tune which was repeated over and over again until it was securely held in the mind; for instance the state capitals would be located in this way: Maine—Augusta on the Kennebec New Hampshire—Concord on the Merrimack, etc. It was a popular way for the young folks to study the subject anyhow and it is said to have been very effective.

OUR BED-TIME STORY FOR TINY TIMES-DEMOCRAT FOLKS

When Captain Brave told the children that they were going to leave the castle and start on their way again, Jack and the girls were eager to know where their next stopping place was to be.

"We are going to Paris next," said the Captain.

"We will see the palace at Versailles where the Germans signed the peace treaty; the Hotel Crillon at Paris, where President Wilson and the other American statesmen held their meetings; the main sessions of the peace conference were held; the beautiful home of Prince Murat, where President and Mrs. Wilson lived on their first visit to France, and lots of other interesting places."

Of course the children were very eager to get started when they heard this, so much so that they were not as sad as they might have been at leaving dear King Charles and Queen May, and the castle in which they had had such a splendid time.

Late that afternoon they climbed aboard the airplane, waved good-bye to the king and queen and started for the French capital.

"I hope we get word about mother and father there," said Jeanne as the plane soared away.

"I hope we do, too," said Ladydear.

"Although we shall almost hate to give you up."

Ladydear noted with pride though that the weeks of play and travel with Jack and Jane made Jeanne very healthy and happy.

The children were sleeping soundly when the plane left the little kingdom and were still sleeping 1000 miles later when the plane reached France and flew again over territory that was very familiar to Captain Brave.

The children were up, though, in time to see many more of the villages and districts made famous by the war.

It had been a long time since the captain and Ladydear and the children had received any mail, so Captain Brave decided to stop at Brest on the way to Paris. You remember that the Captain had made arrangements with the officers at Brest to hold all mail and messages for him there.

Now can you guess what surprising word there was for the children and their friends in the mail the captain got?

Well, I'll tell you. There was a short note from the doctor at the hospital at Rheims. The doctor told Captain Brave that he had found Jeanne's father. The wounded man was in what is called a convalescent hospital near Paris.

This is a hospital, you know, where soldiers, nearly well, stay until they are able to go to work again. The doctor said he had told Jeanne's father about his daughter and told him to remain in the hospital ward until word could reach Captain Brave. At the end of the note were instructions as to how to reach the hospital.

Back aches; head aches;
Your kidneys are probably weakened.
You should help them at their work.

Let one who knows tell you how. Mrs. H. E. Simpson, 625 East Kibby street, says: "I had weak kidneys for a good many years. I had a dragging ache in my back and was so lame I could hardly get up or down. My kidneys acted irregularly and other symptoms showed they were out of order. I became restless and nervous and couldn't get much sleep. Mornings I felt more tired than before going to bed and I was often bothered with dizziness. When I bent over I often had to catch hold of something to keep from falling. I tried different remedies without getting relief but when I used Dean's Kidney Pills, they soon helped me. After using three boxes my kidneys were acting regularly, my backache was gone and I had no more dizziness." 60, at all dealers. Foster-Milburn Co., Mfrs., Buffalo, N. Y.

A Few Words About Prayers

ONE of our Lima ministers, now absent from town on his annual period of physical and spiritual refreshment, preached a sermon not long ago which had a perfectly good text in the gospels, but his real sermonic formula was based on a splendid thought by Emerson, substantially if not exactly as follows:

"All men are always praying.

"All prayers are answered.

"Be very careful what you pray for."

His first hypothesis is surely true, however strange it may seem at first thought. All men may not realize that they are praying; certainly all of them do not enter into a quiet place daily, or even weekly, or yet again annually, and definitely pray for something. They perhaps never name the Deity except in careless profanation. And yet their daily life is a prayer—a prayer for the gradual depreciation of their spiritual stores the gradual deadening of their spiritual natures.

The second Emersonian tenet is still harder to believe, at first blush. The thrifty soul prays for greater wealth; the delicate one for better health; the childless parent for children; the over-blessed parent to be delivered from larger families. The professional soldier prays for wars; the pacifist for continued peace. The preacher for the swayed. They may not get what they want debauchery in material, in alleged art and amusement, for the killing of souls. Indirectly or directly, their prayers are all answered. They may not what they want directly, but their souls are tending that way, and in some way and in some measure they will attain their desires, whether the answer means blessing or defilement.

So "be careful what you pray for." Your daily life means either the raising of your better nature to greater heights or a little way farther on the retrograde way which makes for the deadened soul and the depreciated spiritual appreciation.

If you would pray best, go to church tomorrow. There is no place where you can be quite so conscious of God and of goodness as in His own house. Pray well, and let some of your prayers Sunday be uttered near the Holy Altar.

Hunger a Serious Menace to Growing Child

A Government Warning Against Excess of Malnutrition

In the National struggle for food for a sufficient reduction in the cost of living to maintain adult existence seemingly there has been lost sight of a most serious feature of the existing trouble charged to the heartless profiteer.

That trouble is the life of the little one.

If the grown up has difficulty to getting enough nourishing food to keep his strength and maintain his health what about the little ones whose rapidly growing little bodies require the best of stimulating food, and the most nourishing.

Is there anything truer than that the children represent the future assets of the Nation? What sort of a Nation will it be, built of an army of anemics, tuberculosis victims, mental and physically incompetent?

In F. Wayne last week a Hun man offered arrested the father of four little ones whom he found burrowing in a garbage can for bits of bread and meat. These children were literally starving. The father gave the customary excuse, but trader largely on the high cost of things which made it impossible for him to supply his family. There are plenty of this sort of people in the land. One would think in these times of plenty of money at least, a hard worker could be little excuse for such a thing.

But it is true—the man who tries, is lax and indifferent and lets his family shift for itself. This type is no better when there is a plenty of work, than when it is scarce.

A special communication from the U. S. Department of Labor, Childers Bureau says that from 2,000,000 to 4,000,000 of American children are not getting enough to eat. They are the children of parents of whom it is often said "They are delicate of eating, or lazy or just plain greedy."

Miss Lydia Roberts, the eminent dietitian has just written for the Children's Bureau a pamphlet called "What is Malnutrition?"

She says these children are hungry or technically "malnourished." Some of them do not literally get enough to eat. More perhaps do not get enough of the right sort of food, some are unable, as a result of physical defect, properly to assimilate what they eat.

It is pleasant to reflect that American citizens are already taking steps to correct this situation. In the work of Miss Nickel the Rural Nurse in the service of the Allen county Child Welfare Association.

Miss Nickel is on the program of the County Teachers Institute which opens Monday, the 18th and continues through the 22d at Memorial Hall. Her address will be at 10:30 a. m. to the conference. She is dealing with the school children of the various villages and districts coming under the jurisdiction of the Superintendent, Vagabond and his associates.

Upon the teachers of all these schools prime policy in conjunction with the supervision at home of the parents will depend the continued improvement of such little ones. The examinations show the deficiencies in one way or another.

Miss Nickel is following up closely the special examination made last Spring by Miss Cunningham, the State Rural Nurse sent here to examine and report upon the physical conditions of the pupils.

She spent the latter part of the past week in Lima at the City Hospital where she had a number of little ones from Heaven Dam, Irvette and Gomer needing the immediate treatment for defective tonsils, adenoids or similar trouble.

She visited and examined school children of Spencer Hill on the first three days of the week. She will visit Delphos this week going there on Tuesday if her address is a feature of the Monday session.

According to Dr. Josephine Baker more than one fifth of the school children of New York City are undernourished. The percentage for the entire United States is even higher.

Dr. Thomas Wood places it at from 15 to 25 per cent. Since this takes no account of malnourished children under school age, in the "neglected period" between the ages of two and seven, when malnutrition usually has its beginning, from three to six million hungry American children is probably a conservative estimate.

Many of these children are going hungry, says Miss Roberts, because their parents can not afford to buy a sufficient amount of suitable, nourishing food. Thousands of American families are to day living on an income which does not permit of an adequate diet. But poverty is not the sole cause of malnutrition. Many mothers do not know how to spend their money to get the best return in food values, or how to plan healthful nourishing meals for their families. Many other have not sufficient control over their children to induce them to eat the right things and to take the proper rest necessary to development. These make pride, Miss Roberts points out, in having a "delicious" table. They do not realize that the undernourished boy or girl is peculiarly susceptible to disease.

But the restless, inactive, malnourished child who is constantly tired who leans against the school building while his comrades play is a danger to the man who is handicapped because of low vitality and a poorly developed body. The latter condition the neglected army recruit.

One of the most effective ways of seeing that the starving children of America are fed the pamphlet points out is the malnutrition clinic. In the nutrition class where children are gathered together for instruction in diet and health habits, mothers are urged to come to the clinic and the homes of the children are visited just as being done now in the county by Miss Nickel in the co-operation of the parents.

Boston, Chicago and New York the first cities to have these clinics report great improvements in the children at ending them. The school lunch is another factor in reducing malnutrition.

Medical supervision of all children until they are through the growing period Miss Roberts regards as the fundamental requirement in bringing America's millions of malnourished children up to normal health and strength. Such supervision should mean the prompt recognition of undernourishment, the correction of defects that may contribute to it, and the instruction of the child and his elders in healthful living.

Many of these children are going hungry, says Miss Roberts, because their parents can not afford to buy a sufficient amount of suitable, malnourished child who is constantly tired who leans against the school building while his comrades play is a danger to the man who is handicapped because of low vitality and a poorly developed body. The latter condition the neglected army recruit.

At all the water resorts aquaplaning is the newest sport. The aquaplane is really only a board towed by a motor boat. The idea was adapted from the surf riding of the natives of Hawaii, who have long used surf boards.

COAL FAMINE IS BECOMING LIKELY

WASHINGTON, August 15.—There is an alarming prospect of widespread distress and suffering next winter by reason of a coal shortage, it is said at the capital.

Several resolutions have been introduced in Congress calling for an investigation of the coal conditions, but they have been allowed to slumber in committees. There is said to be little disposition to act upon them except under compulsion.

Unless remedial steps are without delay, it is claimed coal will be higher and much more difficult to obtain during next winter than it was in 1917-18, and distress and actual suffering consequently will be much more general.

There is much less coal moving now than at this season last year.

It has been charged definitely in congress that the present "lack of market" is a result of a conspiracy on the part of the coal men to keep up prices.

Furnace coal was quoted in Washington today at $12.25 a ton, white ash at $12.55, chestnut at $12.55 and pea coal at $10.80. The National Coal association has been carrying on a "buy coal now" campaign with a view to inducing the public to buy at extortionate prices, it is alleged.

Fifty thousand dollars was appropriated to wage this campaign, it is said.

The principal contention seen in the propaganda of the coal operators to induce present buying has been that there is a car shortage and a shortage of labor which would cause a great decrease in production. Both statements have been denied in official reports of government bureaus.

Unionizing the Farmer

By Howard L. Burba.

HERALDED by organizers of quiet mien and telling argument; boosted by press agents with power to portray that long-cherished dream, the Brotherhood of Man, and yet unnoticed by the casual city dweller in his daily chase for the almighty dollar—a great cloud approaches from the northwest.

Starting up in the Dakotas, it has swept across the waving fields of golden grain in Iowa, over the mile-long rows of tasseled corn in Kansas, through the rich alfalfa fields of Illinois, and is now hovering above the fertile farms of our own Ohio. Growing steadily but surely as the days go by, this great cloud promises to eventually spread over the entire nation, and those who see in it an omen of better things predict such a transformation in our rural life as no man has yet dared hope for.

Men acquainted with the movement represented by this fast-gathering cloud declare it had its origin in the Non-Partisan League of the Northwest. Those who have studied it and who are giving it impetus by their hearty co-operation say the two have no connection.

Farmers who have become interested set forth the claim that it is the forerunner of more prosperous times and signifies the approach of that for which the world has long waited—the triumph of open-hearted honesty over greed and avarice. They scoff at mention of a grand attempt to cement the rural residents of this country under one political banner, just as they appear unconcerned when it is suggested that perhaps it is but the approach of still another scheme to wring from labor's brow more sweat and from labor's purse a higher price for bread.

But, whatever it represents, whatever may be back of it, the fact remains that out of the Northwest has swept a great cloud of co-operation; activity, and that it is now centered over Northwestern Ohio. Swiftly and surely it is settling over the counties lying near the Indiana line—Butler, Preble, Shelby, Darke, Miami, Auglaize, Van Wert and Allen. Rapidly new organizations of farmers are being formed for the study of co-operative principles, and as each one hangs its charter upon the walls of a township house or small-town lodge room the great cloud becomes intensified and takes on added strength.

These societies, of which the city man knows little, even though they are being formed openly and with no attempt at secrecy, are known as "Equity-Union Exchanges," and literature turned out by presses owned by those interested in the movement bear the imprint of "The National Farmers' Equity-Union."

The real purpose of the organization is to unite the buying and selling power of a large number of farmers and consumers in one body and eliminate a large share of the middleman's profit. This, the promoters claim, will enable a grain farmer in Kansas to market his wheat at the Kansas City price, less the actual cost of handling. It will also enable the farmer to buy his twine, machinery and other commodities at the lowest jobbing prices in Chicago, plus the actual cost of handling. National co-operation is the goal sought. When 750 exchanges unite the buying power of 300,000 farmers in this organization, they will be able to help fix the price instead of letting the manufacturer fix it, so it is claimed. The plan is to organize strong local companies on a firm business basis around market centers and then organize central companies to serve the locals in that territory. There are no state, county or schoolhouse units in the organization. There are no lodge features.

So thoroughly and so quietly have the men back of this new movement worked since the 15th day of December, 1910, that they have invaded eleven states, with a total to date of 450 charters issued to locals, while in Northwestern Ohio alone more than a dozen new locals are now in process of formation. When the difficulties that had to be overcome are taken into consideration it will be realized that the growth of the organization has been wonderful. There are now, possibly, 125,000 active members, each with at least $100 invested, each a willing delegate, and every one an enthusiastic exponent of the doctrines set forth in the constitution of the organization. It is not a movement similar to the "Grange," and neither is it proposed to permit it to degenerate into a political organization akin to the old "Populist" movement of the eighties, so its promoters contend. Members of it pooh-pooh any suggestion that it will eventually resolve itself into a full-fledged brother of the Non-Partisan League. They scout all ideas of unionism along American Federation of Labor lines.

These local exchanges, several of which have recently been formed in Shelby, Preble and Auglaize counties, are, wherever possible, organized at local market points and their business is governed largely by the needs of each particular locality. Grain elevators, creameries, stores and other lines are carried on by the farmers who make up the membership. These local companies are capitalized for profit, chartered by the state in which they operate, are financially independent of any other locals and cannot be held for the debts of any other concerns.

Each member subscribes for two shares of stock of $100 each and settles for the first share of $100 by cash or note. This share including his entrance fee will cost him $105. The local organization is governed by a board of five directors elected by the stockholders of the local exchange. The stockholders adopt their own by-laws and have full control of their own capital stock. These directors of the local exchange employ a manager, place him under bond, and introduce the Equity-Union system of accounting. They insist that the manager buy and sell on a safe margin of profit and provide that the books must be audited at least every three months by a competent auditor. They deal with the outsider at the same prices made to a member, but the outsider never participates in the profits at the end of the year.

At the end of the year the directors take out the cost of running the business, take out a 3 per cent stock dividend, and all other earnings left are paid back to the members on a basis of the amount of business they have transacted with the company. If the net earnings for the year amount to 10 per cent of the members' total business, then each member is paid back 10 per cent of his total volume of business for the year. If Mr. A. has traded out $500 with the company he will be paid back 10 per cent of $500 or $50, plus $3 stock dividend, or $53. No patronage dividend is paid back until two full shares of stock are paid up. After these shares are fully paid up all dividends are paid back in cash. The locals deal in grain, hay, machinery, lumber, posts, fencing, flour, salt, cream, twine, coal and other commodities needed or produced on an American farm.

There you have the farmers' dream of a movement to revolutionize farming conditions throughout America. There you have the silvery-ling to the big cloud fast sweeping across the country. Time alone can furnish you with the other side—time alone will tell if, like many other co-operative movements launched among rural residents in the past, this one is to leave its followers a little poorer in purse but a little more enriched by experience.

A few weeks ago an Equity-Union organizer dropped into the village of Anna, in Shelby county, on the line of the B. & O. railroad. That point has long maintained two prosperous grain elevators, each privately owned. The organizer found a fertile field for his work, and within a short time he had succeeded in incorporating a $40,000 company. One of the elevator owners was approached for a price on his plant. He did not want to sell, because he had prospered through careful attention to business through his ability to "play square" with his customers and through his long experience in buying and selling grain and shipstuffs. But the threat of a third elevator caused him to dispose of his business, and with the business went a home he had builded out of the profits and in which his wife and family were content. The Equity-Union wanted an elevator—and got it.

Today, the elevator, with a capacity of 30,000 bushels, is buying in competition with the one across the railroad track. And yet, it is declared, if the other man wants to jump prices the Equity-Union people will not set the advance. "On the other hand," one of the members of the organization explained to me, "the men in the Equity elevator will unload their wheat on the other fellow in order to assist him into bankruptcy that much more speedily."

Equity-Union figures the cost of a modern elevator at $22,000. Men in the business for years argue that the figure is several thousand dollars low, with building material and lumber at its present high scale. But no elevators are erected where it is possible to take over one already established, and usually the threat to erect a new one has the desired effect.

At New Hampshire and Wayneville, in Auglaize county, co-operative elevators are being tried out for the first season. Monroe township, in Preble county, maintains another, while but two, the ones at Camden and Haviland, have been in operation under Equity-Union direction for more than one season. Financial reports filed by both of these indicate an ordinary profit on the business done. Upon the strength of this other sections are falling in line, and new locals being organized every few days in some section of Ohio.

While the national organization does not, it is claimed, dictate to the various locals just how they shall conduct their affairs, each local is affiliated with the central body, and is expected to contribute to its support. Headquarters of the national organization are in the little town of Greenville, Ill. C. O. Drayton, a substantial citizen of that section and for years one of the most prominent agriculturalists in Illinois is president; P. L. Betts, of Chicago, vice president and LeRoy Melton, of Greenville, is secretary. The latter is in charge of the organization's printing plant at Greenville, and is also the editor-in-chief of the weekly official organ, "The Equity-Union Exchange." The paper carries matter of interest to members, along with a liberal amount of farm advertising and a classified farm-want column.

All of the printed matter used by the various locals is, naturally, supposed to bear the imprint of the Greenville printing plant. It should be secured there, Mr. Melton argues, if the spirit of co-operation is carried out to the letter.

Editor Melton is optimistic. His editorial column radiates it, and is fairly ablaze with proof that rich, elysian fields lie just ahead of those who affiliate with Equity-Union. He paints word pictures of the happy day when "the farmer will come into his own." He sees ahead a realization of man's fondest dream—a real brotherhood of man and a consummation of good times dreamed of for centuries ago. These few words, from Editor Melton's pen, will serve to bear out this statement:

"Why is it that so many persons are in the habit of looking forward to the accomplishment of great things and of neglecting the real opportunities within their very grasp? Rainbow chasing is a pleasant and exciting diversion when one is fired with the ardor of youth but to keep one's feet on the ground and cultivate the rich, teeming soil under one's feet is far more practicable as a general rule. There are plenty of farm organizations in the country and they have in the aggregate a very large membership with leadership and ability sufficient to accomplish all that is necessary, and put agriculture in the very first rank as an occupation. It is not necessary to wait an indefinite number of months or years to put a sane and effective agricultural program into effect if these organizations will only agree to work together harmoniously around the basic questions which are non-controversial and upon which all real farm organizations are already agreed."

Farmers of Ohio are slowly but surely awakening to the fact that a movement is on and gaining adherents by the hundreds as it sweeps across the state. Slow to act, they are nevertheless quick to seek out the promised benefits once the object of the organization is set before them—they are rapidly stepping forward with cash in hand to back still another of the many, many co-operative schemes based solely upon a nationwide plan to unionize agricultural interests into a brotherhood so powerful in membership it will eventually be in position to dictate both the buying and selling prices of all things used or produced upon the farm.

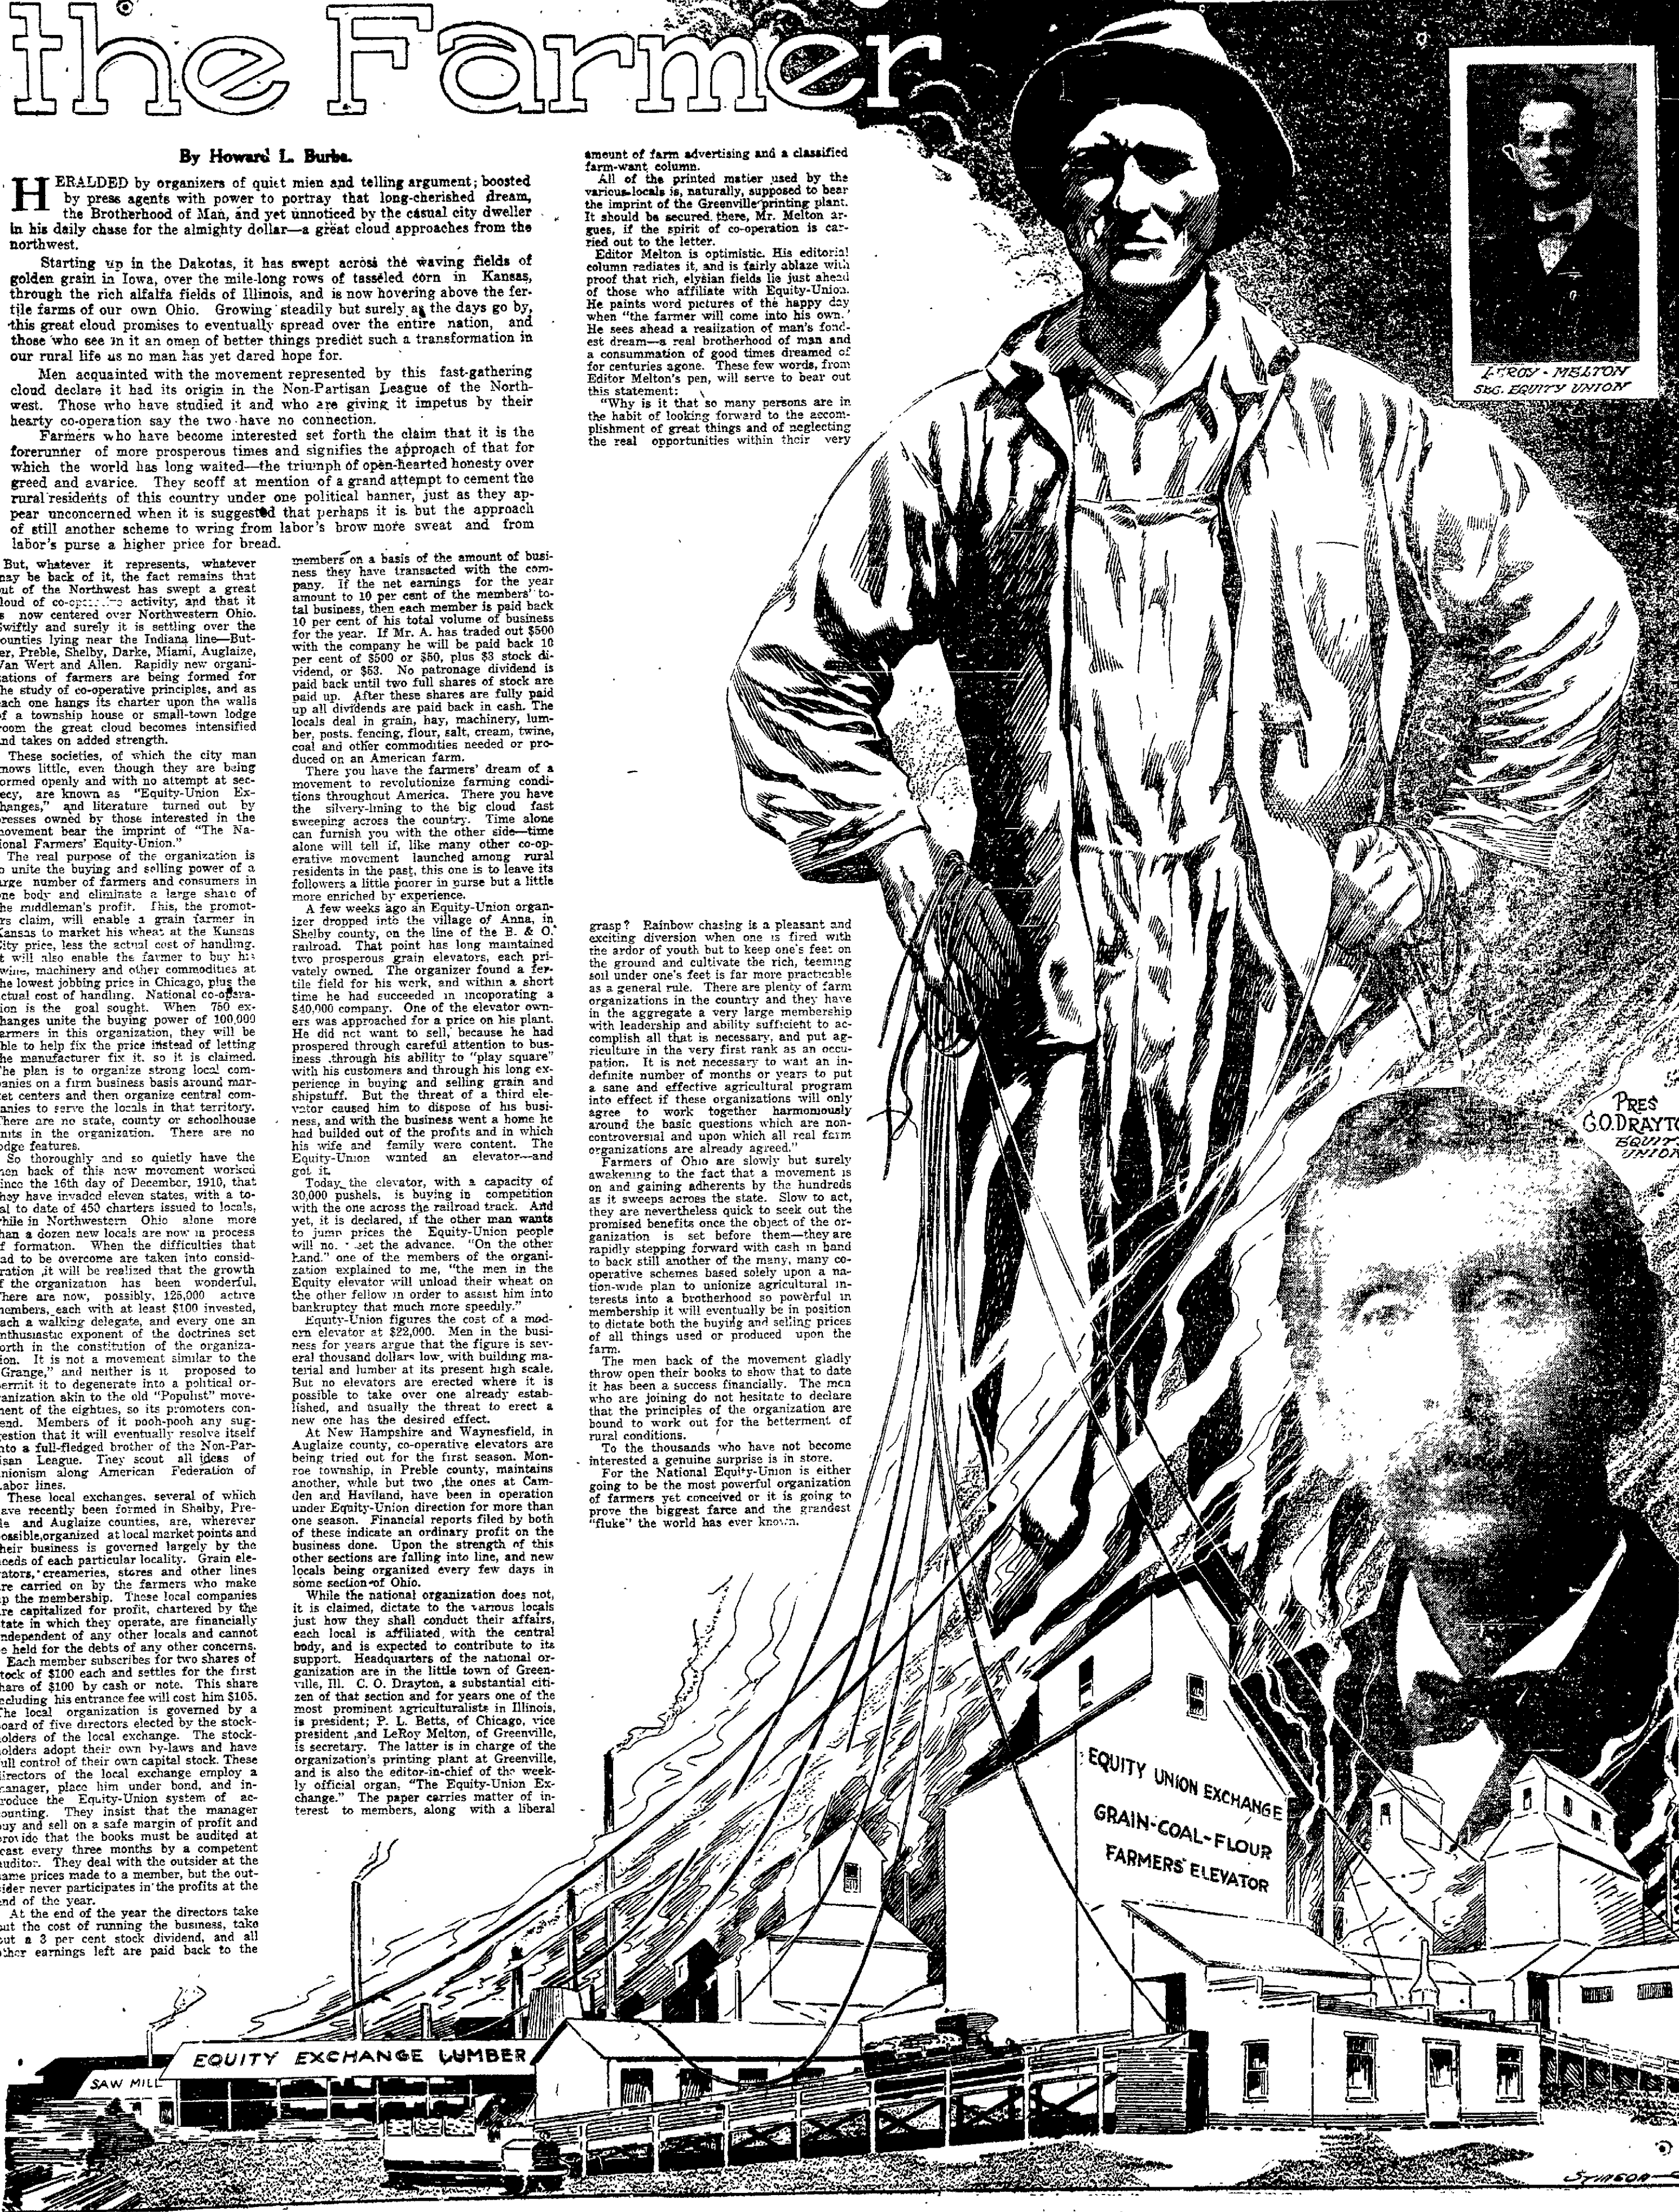

The men back of the movement gladly throw open their books to show that to date it has been a success financially. The men who are joining do not hesitate to declare that the principles of the organization are bound to work out for the betterment of rural conditions.

To the thousands who have not become interested a genuine surprise is in store. For the National Equity-Union is either going to be the most powerful organization of farmers yet conceived or it is going to prove the biggest farce and the grandest "fluke" the world has ever known.

DINNER

Franklin Cover, of North Washington street, invited a number of friends to dinner at Waterville Thursday evening. Included in the party were Miss Martin Sullivan, Miss Hazel Wright, Miss Gertrude Hunter, of Norristown, Pa., and Alexander Macdonald, Benjamin Morter and Ralph P. Mackenzie.

Miss Margaret Snook, of Toledo, is a guest of Miss Nettie M. Snook, of West North street.

XVI.—EN ROUTE TO ADVENTURE

I was not so far insensible to my husband's attraction to take dinner lightly. Dressing for the most casual meal was always a rite. I spent the usual hour on my costume and came down in a delectable frock of pale pink chiffon as befitting as a debutante's.

"I believe I've married a flapper after all," was Paul's amused comment when he saw me.

"I felt old tonight," I answered pettily. "marriage does take it out of you so, doesn't it?"

"I'm scarcely in a position to judge after only four weeks. Did you have a pleasant day?"

"Tiresome. Can't we go somewhere tonight? I'm fearfully bored with my own society."

"You scarcely seemed lonely when I met you at noon," Paul reminded me with a teasing twinkle. "I dare not say I should be running across the remains of the vanquished for the next year."

"Do you mind?" I think I said it hopefully.

"Not a bit in the world. I expected it—the penalty of having an attractive wife. You need diversion and I shall be very busy for the next few months until the office gets adjusted to these abnormal war conditions. I'm particularly sorry about tonight, but I've got to see one of our representatives before he goes to New York at midnight."

"Oh I'll call up Fan. She's sure to have something on."

Fan answered the phone herself and gave a little shriek as I voiced my plaint.

"Never tell me there's no such thing as telepathy! I was only just saying to Billy that you were the one person we needed to make up the party."

"Is there a party?" I asked eagerly.

"Rather! Captain Frazier's dining with us and he's asked us up to his

AGENT ARRIVES.

Miss Luella Schaeffe, who has just arrived in Lima as advance superintendent for Colt-Alber Chautauqua, reports that she has been doing similar work in Canada during the last two months and that very successful chautauquas have been held in 40 towns and cities of Ontario.

"Great enthusiasm was manifested for the Colt-Alber Chautauqua programs in the cities I visited in Canada," said Miss Schaeffe. "This was their second year and they fully appreciated the splendid bargain they are getting, and are planning to sell their season tickets next summer for $2.50 for a six-day program, instead of $2, the amount charged this summer."

The program given in Canada was almost the same as the one to be given here, except that your program will be larger and more expensive with added attractions like Dr. Gordon, Hruby's Czech-Slovak Quintette and Miss Martino. Judge Lindsey, and the Orpheus Quartette.

Lima should have a large season ticket sale—one thousand should be its minimum. In at least one Canadian town a record was set. The town has a population of eighteen hundred people and eleven hundred season tickets were sold."

MISSIONARY SOCIETY

The Missionary society of the First Reformed church will be entertained at the home of Miss Nettie M. Snook, of West North street, Tuesday afternoon. It will be guest day, and there will be a special program.

Mr. and Mrs. Calvin S. Creps, of Cleveland, are visiting Mr. Creps' parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. S. Creps, of West North street, for over the week-end.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Lee Laughlin, of West Market street, have as their guests, Miss Anna Herbert and Miss Edna Hemphill, of Pittsburgh, who are enroute to their homes from Evanston Ill.

Miss Virginia Williams, of Van Wert, has returned to her home, after being the guest of Miss Violet Bradley of West North street, for the past week.

Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Mackenzie and Judge and Mrs. Phil M. Crow, are leaving the middle of next week for Boston, Mass. They will make the trip by motor and will tour the White mountains.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul A. Young, of East Market street, are visiting with friends in Cleveland over the week-end.

Emma Bailey, Noted Actress, Plays Role Of Modern Reporter

Emma Bailey.

Miss Emma Bailey who appears as Mary Norton, the newspaper reporter in George M. Cohen's great story to be produced by the Lima Chautauqua, "Seven Keys to Baldpate" is an American girl and received her first schooling in the theatrical profession by playing a season of stock in Philadelphia. This was followed by several successful engagements on the road and in New York city, the most recent of which was a season with Guy Bates Post in "The Masquerader."

Miss Bailey is an enthusiastic motorist, with a keen enjoyment of the great outdoors, and likes nothing better than to drive her own car when the ardors of the theatrical season are over.

Miss Loretta Henry, who is training at the St. Johns Hospital, Cleveland, has arrived at the home of her mother, Mrs. Mathew Henry, of North Jefferson street, to spend several weeks.

Miss Mary Riley of West McKibben street, has gone to Avalon, Pittsburgh where she will visit for a week with friends.

Mrs. John L. Cable, of Lakewood avenue, has returned to her home from Chicago where she has been studying piano with the noted Percy Grainger, during the summer, and where she has made marked advances. Mr. Grainger was so well pleased and so impressed with her talents, that he advised her going on to New York for special work.

Mrs. Cable has with her as her guest until the first of September, Miss Paula Deering, a brilliant soprano soloist of Chicago, a pupil of the well known instructor, Mrs. O. L. Fox.

Harry Gayer, of Ft. Thomas, is visiting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Marsh Thompson, of West Market street, over the week-end.

Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Bradely, and daughter, Miss Anna, of West North street, have returned to their home after spending the past month in Michigan.

Mr. and Mrs. O. B. Selfridge, and Market street, motored to Wooster where they spent the week-end with friends.

COMPLIMENTING BRIDE-ELECT

Miss Grace Spellacy, of West North street, has issued invitations for Tuesday afternoon when she will entertain with bridge complimenting Miss Marjorie Borges, whose marriage to Henry L. Kidder, will be an event of September 16th.

Miss Laura Mae Gillaspie, of Terrace Court, has gone to Marion, Ind., where she will meet her cousin, Miss Charlotte Wells, of Tipton, Ind., and they will motor through to Tipton, where Miss Gillaspie will spend the remainder of the summer.

Mrs. Carl Smith, of Oxford, is the guest of her brother and family, Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Ford and daughter, Mary Jane, of North McDonald street. Sunday she will be joined by her husband and they will go on to Ottawa to be the guest of her mother, Mrs. James Ford.

ELIZABETH GUILD.

The Elizabeth Guild spent a delightful evening with Miss Faye Randall, of South Metcalf street, on last Monday evening. After the usual program the guests adjourned to the yard where with garden shrubbery forming a picturesque background, they roasted marshmallows over an open fire.

Miss Frances Schrock, who is in training at St. Vincent's hospital, Toledo, is the guest of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. L. S. Schrock, of South Elizabeth street.

Miss Emma Sieber, of West Spring street, has as her guest Miss Edith Weinberg and Mrs. Basko, of Cleveland.

Miss Minerva Musselman, of the Kab apartments, has returned from a week's visit with relatives in Crestline.

FAREWELL PARTY

Miss Mabel Fisher was showered with attentions on Thursday evening, when a circle of her friends gathered at her home on South Elizabeth street to enjoy an evening with music and games, before she leaves to make her future home in Kenton. Miss Fisher was presented with a beautiful leather purse as a slight token of their feelings for her.

Those present for the evening were Misses Ruth Maple, Edith McCoy, Bertha Cesna, Veloe Brestler, Ellen Bricely, Emma Irving, Maud Houtzer, Correne Ernest, Helen Tunk, Elsie Brestler, Rowena Steele and Marvin Copp, Charles Dupere, David Steiner, Ernest Kraft, Chester Davis, Park Sletcher, Wesley Burgoon and Ralph Steele.

William Stadler, of Elmwood Place, has returned from ten months' service overseas.

SWIFT

The great Dean of St. Patrick's, who ranks among the mighty satirists of all ages and all lands, was born in Hoey's Court, Dublin, November 30, 1667. He died October 19, 1745.

This most brilliant wit, genius, harer of rascality, master of irony and invective, and true Irish patriot, was born to poverty and dependence; he started life embittered and he ended "dying of rage like a poisoned rat in a hole," to use his own expression. His life was a failure, though he played a mighty part. "Good God, what a genius I had when I wrote that book!" he said when he later reread the "Tale of a Tub," and the world has agreed with him. Yet failure ever tracked him. He never received the preferment in the church which his ability would have brought another; by his political pamphlets he largely formed the public opinion of his time, yet that was the end of it for him; he had the strongest attachments for two women, "Stella," to whom the famous Journal was written, and "Viviana," but little happiness came to him. "To think of him," said Thackeray, "is like thinking of the ruins of a great empire."

GULLIVER'S TRAVELS

By DEAN SWIFT

Condensation by James B. Connolly

I was of a Nottinghamshire family and educated at Cambridge. Likewise was I educated in medicine, and preferring a ship's surgeon to any preferment ashore, it came about that after several deep-sea voyages I found myself surgeon of that ship, the Antelope, which was wrecked in a violent storm on a coast north-west of Van Diemen's Land.

Of all the ship's company I alone escaped to the land, where, in utter exhaustion, I lay down and fell asleep. I awakened to find myself bound hand and foot, and surrounded by swarms of the tiniest human creature. They brought me food and drink and conveyed me to their capital, where the King, of a majesty a full half inch taller than any of his subjects, came with his court to view me.

In time I learned that I was in the kingdom of the Lilliputians. By them I was kept a long time in captivity. Being ultimately satisfied of the harmlessness of my intent, I also adding my word of honor to do them no injury, they released me, and set aside six professors of education to teach me their language. For my bodily sustenance they allowed me a quantity of meat and drink sufficient for 1,724 of their own people; for so, being exact in their mathematics, they estimated the proportions of my bulk to theirs. Three hundred cooks and 120 waiters were named to dress my meals, 200 seamstresses were apportioned to make my linen, and 300 tailors for my outer clothing.

With my wants thus attended to, I was desirous to be of service to them. My first service was not to damage their people or their property as I walked abroad, a most likely danger when the men were of such size that I could scud two or three of them in one of my coat pockets. In walking the streets were I to step heavily, there was danger of my shaking down large buildings; or, by not having an eye below me, I could easily tread to death half a dozen of their cattle.

One day the king, who was most friendly to me, came to me in great trouble. The Emperor of the neighboring kingdom of Blefuscu had threatened to lay waste the kingdom of Lilliput. The Lilliputian navy, consisting of fifty great ships of war, was even then about to sail; but I by wading and swimming, reached their chief harbor where they were at anchor. With my pocket knife I cut the cables of their fifty ships of war, and then, tying each ship to a piece of twine, I drew them after me to dry land, and so compelled the capitulation of Blefuscu.

When this deed redounded to my glory, it also raised me up powerful enemies, one being the High Admiral of the Lilliputian navy. Had I wished, I could have crushed them and their entire kingdom under my boots, but there was my pledged word not to harm them. So when by secret intrigue they had me tried and condemned to the loss of my eyes, there was nothing left me but escape. I went to Blefuscu, where I was given a great reception and where they would have me stay; but I was weary of Kings and Princes, and told them that I desired nothing except that they would provision me a vote, which I had found drifting on the shore, and allow me to go my way.

They stored the boat with the carcasses of 100 oxen, 300 sheep, with cows, bulls, and as much ready-killed meat as 400 cooks could provide. Being thus protected against famine, I set sail on the third day and was picked up by an English merchant captain, who deemed me crazy when I told him my story. Not until I had taken several head of cattle from my pockets would he believe me. To my great grief, one of the ship's rats carried off one of my sheep on the way home.

On reaching home I learned that my uncle John had died and left me his estate near Epping, and the same being sufficient to keep my family from want and the just to wander being still quick within me, I set off to see once more, this time in the Adventure, bound for Surat.

On this voyage, after a great tempest, we put into a strange bay of water. Rambling on the shore, I became separated from my companions and fell into the hands of some natives of Brobdingnag, colossal men, of whom hardly one was under sixty English feet in height.

I was here put on exhibition, and my fame reaching the ears of the King and Queen, they commanded my presence at court, and thither I was brought, in the charge of one daughter of one of my captors, a little girl named Glumdalclitch, nine years of age and small for her years, being not over thirty feet in height.

In the train of their majesties, I traveled all over the kingdom, which was 6,000 miles in length by three to five thousand in breadth. The capital was 54 miles in length by 45 in breadth, a wonderful city, where the King's palace was seven miles around and the chief room therein 140 feet high, and broad and long in proportion. The King's stable was also a goodly building, housing 500 horses, noble creatures of a height of from 54 to 60 feet.

Of the Lilliputians I used to say, that they were people without a blemish in their persons, and the Brobdingnagians coarse beyond description; but later reflection induces me to think that the Lilliputians had blemishes proportionate to their size, the same being too tiny for me to estimate; and that possibly the Brobdingnagians appeared more vulgar than they truly were, their colossal proportions magnifying every defect. In some matters these large people were at least larger-minded. Thus, in the matter of whether it was proper to break an egg on the little or big end—which had almost split the Lilliputian kingdom in twain—as to that matter the Brobdingnagians would have lost little sleep. I judge this from a comment by the Brobdingnagian King on a political matter which I spoke of in connection with my own country—England. "It is tyranny," he said, "for a government to require those who hold differing opinions to change or not to change them."

His Majesty was much interested to hear of England; whereat I related at length her history, which astonished him. He protested that it seemed no more than a sequence of conspiracies, murders, revolutions, bandishments, the worst effects that avarice, faction, hypocrisy, hatred, lust, malice and ambition could produce. "What a pernicious race of odious vermin to be allowed to crawl upon the face of the earth!" he said; which injurious judgment of my noble and beloved country pained me exceedingly.

Now while I had become a favorite of a great nation, it was upon such a footing as ill became the dignity of human kind. I wished to be once more with people of my own kind; also I longed for a whiff of that sea which looked toward my own land. In response to my entreaties, I was taken to the sea-coast. My little nurse Glumdalclitch being ill,

I was put in charge of a page; who left me alone on the shore while he sought for birds' eggs. While thus alone, the traveling cabinet in which I lay was seized by a great bird who took it far out to sea and then let it drop, almost at the exact moment that an English ship happened by to pick me up. Thus was I singularly rescued and brought once more safe to England.

I made other voyages and had divers adventures, a most singular one being that of my rescue from a desert continent by the people of an island which flew in the air, the same being made to rise and fall by means of an immense loadstone. The people of the flying island held themselves as a superior race, for no greater reason than they had one eye turned inward and one turned upward.

A later voyage took me to the country of the Yahoos and the Houyhnhnms. These Yahoos, being servile attendants to the Houyhnhnms, were of disgusting habits, and so much resembled human beings that the wise and virtuous Houyhnhnms took me also for a Yahoo even to the end of my stay with them, a judgment which grieved me much.

The Houyhnhnms, who had the forms of horses, had the most sensible laws of any creature that I ever lived with. Their abhorrence of many of our human habits was so deep that I came in time to have a contempt for my own species and wished that I, too, were a Houyhnhnm and be allowed to remain with them; but they banished me from their kingdom as one who might set up for a leader of the Yahoos and so some time give them trouble. They allowed me to build and provision a boat; and so I paddled off and in time reached England, where my wife and children were very glad to see me.

DELIGHTFUL PICNIC.

One of the most delightful picnics of the season occurred last Wednesday evening at McBeth's park, when the members of the Woman's Missionary Society of St. Paul's Lutheran church, entertained their families and friends, to the number of 75. The ladies seemed to have outdone themselves in the culinary art and the long table fairly sagged under the load of good things to eat. The evening was spent in boating and games, until at last the little ones grew sleepy and at a late hour the guests reluctantly departed, declaring the ladies to be royal entertainers.

PICNIC

The following people enjoyed a picnic at McColloughs park, Friday evening, Mrs. Joseph McCrate, of Portageville, Missouri, the honor guest, and her children, Joseph, David, Cornelius and Bertha Ann; Mrs. James Daley and son, James, Jr.; Mrs. Michael Bourke and children, Michael, James, William and Paul; Mrs. James O'Connor and Mrs. Joseph O'Connor and son, Jack.

Ray Mauk, of the Holland Block, has returned from Lilydale, N. Y., where he spent the past two weeks.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Scott, of West Elm street, and Mr. and Mrs. Frank Downing and son, Judd, of North Metcalf street, will return Sunday from a western motor trip.

Mrs. Fred Curtis, and daughter, Jean, of West High street, are visiting Mrs. Curtis' mother, Mrs. E. H. Hill, Newcastle, Pa., and Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Wheeler, of Buffalo.

DORIS-DETTRICH WEDDING

A very pretty wedding was that celebrated at noon, at the parsonage of Rev. Walter D. Cole, uniting Roydon J. Doris, and Miss Eleanor F. Detrich, of West High street. The single ring service was used and following the ceremony, they left immediately for Detroit, Port Huron and other Lake points, before returning to their newly furnished home on West Spring street.

Mr. and Mrs. T. A. Collins of West McKibben street, will leave Sunday for Dayton, where they will attend the wedding of Mr. Collins' cousin, Miss Marguerite Herzog, to Paul Wollery.

Rt. Rev. Msgr. Manning is in Cleveland having been called there on account of the serious illness of his sister, Mrs. Jamie O'Brien.

"Come On --- Let's Go"

That's a good slogan — for you — for the community

You want to be somebody—you want to fill properly your place in the city in which you live. That can only be accomplished by living up to the full measure of your opportunities. One of the most essential things to a successful life is THRIFT. And you cannot practice Thrift unless you lay aside part of your earnings. Don't put it in an old sock or bury it in the ground. Place it in an institution where thieves do not break through and steal and where neither moth nor rust doth corrupt. If your money is hidden about your home or person, remember that thieves have sharp, penetrating eyes and you may awaken some of these mornings and find yourself penniless. Then, interest will not accumulate if you do not place your money in a financial institution. And interest, friends, has made more men wealthy than investment—do not forget that statement and fact.

"COME ON --- LET'S GO"

Say that over several times—revolve it around in your mind and get the full import of its meaning. Remember, an automobile will not go without gasoline and a citizen can't go without money. Of course you can eke out an existence—but you can't live out in the glad sunshine of life—out in the open where you will be respected and revered by your fellow-men and where your standing as a full fledged citizen gives you the utmost confidence in people.

SAVE AS YOU EARN

That's the way to become prosperous—that's the way to become somebody. If it is only $1.00 per week, that's all right. That seems small to you, perhaps, but possibly it is all you can afford to lay by now. With regular saving comes the desire to save more, and there is always a way to climb up if you have the desire to "COME ON, LET'S GO."

Mary Pickford in "Rags." Mary Pickford, the popular motion picture star, has attained most of her past screen triumphs clad in rags. It is therefore of odd interest that a new edition of this brilliant success of the famous star should be shown at the Faurot today.

This unusual story was written by Edith Barnard Delano, author of "Still Waters," and the scenario has been so constructed as to provide Miss Pickford with a characterization that affords all her amazingly versatile powers of unique character portrayal ample scope for expression.

In interpreting this, Miss Pickford parallels her histrionic achievement in "The Dawn of a Tomorrow." The Marguerite Clark Sunday.

Salutary lessons to young brides who think themselves neglected by their hard working husbands and who engage in more or less harmless flirtations with other men, are embraced in the development of the story of "Let's Elope," the new Paramount starring vehicle of Marguerite Clark, which will be presented at the Faurot Sunday and Monday. The theme is a fascinating one and its treatment by producer and star has been guided by delicacy and taste with superb effect.

The story is based upon Fred Jackson's successful play "The Naughty Wife," which made a big hit in New York during the season of 1917-18. The adaptation was made by Katherine Reed and John S. The program will also show the Pathe News, which includes views of the Cincinnati-New York baseball games; Paramount Pictographs; Bray Cartoons; and the entertainingly funny Screen Monologue.

Wallace Reid Tuesday.

Wallace Reid's new Paramount picture, "You're Fired!" one of the best in which he has appeared this season, will be displayed at the Faurot theatre next Tuesday and Wednesday.

The story was written by O. Henry under the name of "The Halberdier." The title, "You're Fired!" is quite appropriate and is representative of the main situation in the story.

The plot deals with a young man to keep a job for three months in order to win the daughter of a wealthy railroad owner, this being the test imposed upon him by the prospective father-in-law. He works first in an office, then as a xylophone player in an orchestra and finally gets a job to pose in a suit of ancient armor in an Italian restaurant and furnish part of the Bohemian atmosphere of the place. He has been compelled to resign from his first two positions to keep from being fired, as in that event, he would have lost his chance of marrying the girl.

Included in the cast are Wanda Hawley, Henry Woodward, Theodore Roberts, Lillian Mason, Herbert Pryor, Raymond Hatton and other well-known players.

This program will also include a fresh edition of the Pathe News and James Montgomery Flagg's new comedy, "The Con in Economy."

Lina Cavallieri Friday.

Appearing in a new and novel screen characterization, Lina Cavallieri, one of the foremost operatic stars of the world, will appear at the Faurot theatre next Thursday and Friday, in her latest Paramount starring vehicle, "The Two Brides," written by Alicia Ramsey, adapted for the screen by Margaret Turnbull, and directed by Edward Jose. This according to Manager Cunningham, one of the most notable picture presentations of the season at his theatre.

Mme. Cavallieri is supported by an excellent cast of players, her leading man being Courtenay Foote, the other roles being in the hands of Warburton Gamble, Hal Reid—the father of the famous Paramount star, Wallace Reid—Mrs. Turner, Mrs. Richards, Sherry Tansey, Robert E. Milash and Emil Roe.

Added features of the program consist of Bruce scenics, the Topical Digest and "Smiling Bill" Parsons' new comedy, "Chasing Rainbeaux."

RIALTO THEATRE

Mary MacLaren, "the American Beauty of the Screen," returns to the Rialto theatre tomorrow in her latest Universal special, "The Unpainted Woman." Those who say the popular star in "Shoes," "Creaking Stairs," "Bread," "The Amazing Wife" and other recent successes are promised another picture of surpassing interest.

In "The Unpainted Woman," Miss MacLaren plays the strong role of Gudrun Trygvasson, daughter of Knute, in whose veins flows the blood of a line of Viking ancestors.

The story was written by Sinclair Lewis, the noted short story writer, and gives Miss MacLaren a vehicle in which her true talent as an actress is fully brought out under the able Thurston Hall, well-known Moroco star, whose virile interpretations of the leading roles in "Ben Hur," "Salvation Nell" and "The Girl in Waiting" have won him a national reputation on the legitimate stage, supports Miss McLaren as leading man in "The Unpainted Woman." His success in acting for the silver screen is said to be even greater than behind the footlights.

Little Mickey Moore with his delightful flaven curls is probably the most loved actor in the entire cast. He is quite a star of note and comes from a family of stars. His mother is Nora Moore, the noted English actress and his brother, Paul Moore is well known for his work in "The Squaw Man."

MARCEL NORMAND STARS

IN GOLDWYN'S "THE PISTOL"

Marcel Normand's newest Goldwyn picture is "The Pistol." It comes to the Lima theatre beginning Sunday and it bids fair to cause gales of merriment with a catch in the throat now and then when the viva comes. It becomes a whirl and puffing. "The Pistol" is a happy combination of the elements that go to make the vaudeville. Those who adore Marcel Normand will delight in watching the progress of "Pistol" through a maze of laughable situations which take her from the family to the mansion of the county elite. She is supposed the daughter of a shiftless couple who impose all kinds of laborious duties on her. One is guiding the phantom story which they control, a task which turns about many amusing situations. Another is the peril of more than one of king.

It is when the girl slips an old lover's finger and goes to a party that the serious element in the story is first made known. The judge at whose home the dance is given observes the ring and it recalls memories to him. Investigation is begun and before long suppressed friends of the old man are unmasked and the girl he has reared as his daughter proves to be in league with those intent on his ruin. Puckers is involved in every stage of the plot.

ORPHEUM.

"If everyone had laughed at the farce in the first place there never would have been a terrible war lord scaring Europe into fits and the world into a war," says Mack Sennett, producer of "Yankee Doodle in Berlin," the new comed, which comes to the Orpheum for a four-day engagement starting tomorrow Sunday. In conjunction with the appearance of the Sennett bathing beauties, Sennett is jubilant over the manner in which his latest big venture has been received. "It proves that the country is ready to laugh and be amused now that the war is over," he says.

Manager Hilton has arranged for four complete showings each day: two in the afternoon and two in the evening. The program opens with a special reel which shows the Sennett studios and the bathing girls in revue. Then comes the personal appearance of the various novelities, and the program closes with the screening of the film. A special orchestra is provided at all performances.

WANTS INFORMATION.

Local authorities last night received a communication from Miss Eva Hook, 826 South Clarkson street, Denver, Colo., asking that an effort be made to locate William White, Vice Shaffer, who used to reside near Delphos. He made Miss Hook, according to the letter, an administrator of an estate in which Miss Shaffer is interested.

REASONS WHY EARLY POTATO CROP FAILED

The early potato crop is practically a failure in Ohio this season, due largely to the excessive hot and dry weather in many instances the potatoes are scarcely worth digging. Undoubtedly the use of diseased, untreated seed, however, had something to do with the failure, says Prof. L. M. Montgomery, of the Ohio State University. Black scurf or rosette, he says, was unusually prevalent on shipped potato seed stock last spring. Black scurf upon the tubers is characterized by blackish looking spots on the surface which appear very much like small specks or larger accumulations of black soil. These specks or spots are not removable by ordinary washing but may be separated from the skin by the point of a knife. Unless the potatoes are treated with corrosive sublimate before planting the blackish spots, under favorable weather condition, will give rise to a fungous growth which will attack the young stems and seriously weaken the plant, thus cutting the possible yield.

The greatest damage to early potatoes, however, says Prof. Montgomery, seemed to be the prevalence of tip burn, a non-parasitic condition, which manifests itself in the drying up of the leaves, beginning at the margins and more especially at the tip. Spraying with Bordeaux, while not absolutely preventing the condition, will very materially aid in holding it in check. Early planting and good growing conditions will aid in lessening the damage.

THIS DRUNK $10.

When arraigned in police court this morning on a charge of drunkenness, J. P. Rogers, 32, Columbus Grove, pleaded guilty and was fined $10.

PROSECUTOR BEGINS FOOD INVESTIGATION

VAN WERT, August 16.—Asking that any evidence of unjust prices in foodstuffs or other commodities or that any unlawful price manipulation in Van Wert county be reported to him at once, Prosecuting Attorney Sumner E. Walters has issued a public statement and requests for information. Mr. Walters says that in case sufficient evidence is found to warrant the action, a special session of the grand jury will be called to make investigations and file any needed charges.

Samuel T. Niblick has filed suit in divorce against Emily J. Niblick, on the ground of three years of willful absence. His petition recites that they were married in the year 1869 and are the parents of five children ranging in age from 23 to 43 years. He acknowledges ownership of personal property and real estate in Adams county, Ind., valued at $8,000.

An army airplane will give thrilling stunt exhibitions and take pictures from high altitudes every day of the Van Wert county fair, September 1, 2, 3, 4 and 5. The fair board agreed to engage the flyer at its meeting held Friday morning. The name of the army man has not yet been secured but he will be accompanied by Lieut. G. W. Goddard, of McCook field, Dayton, who together with Lieutenant Coil, was forced to make a landing at Van Wert several weeks ago while on his way to Chicago.

How Much Limestone Should Be Used Per Acre.

In a recent article by Professor Joseph F. Barker, Department of Soils of the Ohio State University, he says that, "whether or not a community is making progress in improving the fertility of its soils can be measured best by the size of its orders for limestone and phosphorus." He further says that "probably three-fourths of the state will recruit five tons of limestone per acre to make the surface six inches of soil nonacid. Much of the land in Ohio now being farmed will require ten or more tons of limestone per acre before it can be classed as a neutral or nonacid soil."

Lima Children to Have a Real Circus at Chautauqua

Lima kiddies will undoubtedly be pleased to learn that the Cort-Alber Chautauqua management have made plans this year to stage a real circus, right under the big chautauqua tent. This circus will be in addition to the big chautauqua features, and will be staged on Wednesday, August 17, at the chautauqua grounds, corner of Elm and McDonald streets.

The chautauqua management has decided to assist the Junior Chautauquans (children from 6 to 14 who have purchased a junior season ticket) in putting on a real circus, not a make-believe one. What boy or girl hasn't played circus at some time, here will be an opportunity to do it on a large scale, and with the whole community taking part or acting as audience.

Kiddies, better begin at once to earn that dollar for a season ticket and get all the boys and girls on your street to do the same. There will be more fun than ever this summer, and you will want to hear the other programs, too, as well as the Junior Chautauqua. You get all that your parents get, and all the other besides.

The circus will include a menagerie of wild animals, various show features, and circus stunts of many kinds and varieties. The kiddies will have the time of their lives and so will the grown folks who will be invited to come and see this wonderful circus, parade and all.

In the county of Iturza saxifraga, known locally as badan, grows in great profusion. Experiments by the Tomak Technological Institute have shown that the root and foliage of the plant contain about twenty per cent. tanning extract, which is said to be more powerful than quebracho extract. Zakoopsbit will undertake the industrial exploitation of this plant.

AUTOISTS FINED FOR FAST DRIVING

DELPHOS, August 16.—A collision between an automobile and a motor cycle at the corner of Main and Second streets about 7:30 Thursday evening resulted in slight damage to both machines and in the driver of two automobiles being fined in mayor's court for careless-driving.

A number of Elcars were being driven from Elkhart, Ind., to Akron, O., and were passing through Delphos on Second street, eastbound. According to police two cars were being driven carelessly when they crossed the canal bridge and approached Main. Isaac Ridenour, driving his motorcycle, was approaching Second street from the south on Main. At the intersection of Second and Main he collided with one of the cars driven by W. M. Winchell, striking and somewhat damaging the running board.

Winchell and Clyde Lauer, another of the Elcar drivers, were arrested. They were arraigned in mayor's court at 9:30 Thursday evening and pleaded guilty to a charge of careless driving. They were assessed $10 and costs each. Police state that Ridenour will be arraigned on a similar charge.

Inspected Seed Wheat From County Agents.

As the result of the inspection of a number of wheat fields by representatives of the farm crops department of the Ohio State University about 50,000 bushels of high grade seed wheat has been located, that is true to name. This wheat contains less than 1/2 of 1 per cent mixture of other wheat varieties and not more than a trace of cheat, cockle and smut. A list of farmers with their addresses, the amount of wheat, the variety and details concerning the quality of the wheat of each farmer has been filed with each county agent in the state. Farmers interested may secure this information concerning an improved variety of pure seed wheat by applying to their county agent. It may be that some of this wheat is located nearby and can be easily secured.

SPEEDER PAYS FINE.

After being found guilty of speeding when arraigned in police court this morning, Z. J. Belle, 124 North Perry street, was fined $5.

How Good those Meals do Taste!

The life in the open, the fresh, clear, bracing Northern air of Lake Superior—what keen-edged appetites it gives us! How eagerly we answer each summons to breakfast, luncheon, dinner—who ever heard of jaded appetites on board the "Noronic," "Hamonic" or "Huronic"? The cuisine on board these wonderful ships is unexcelled, the menu offering as wide selection as will be found in finest restaurant or club. "The meals—they were so good!" On land once more this is a lasting memory.

WESTERN OHIO CAR STRIKES AUTO LOAD OF LIMA PEOPLE

Bodies of the Unfortunate Ones Are Mangled in the Crash

ONLY ONE ESCAPES

Party of Six Were Returning From the Shrine at Carey, Ohio

THE DEAD.

Mrs. Margaret Corwin, 50 years of age, 1061 Arch avenue.
Mrs. Ethel Kissner, 20, her daughter, also living at 1601 Arch avenue.
Kugene, three-year-old son of Mrs. Kissner.
Winifred Marie, 2-year-old daughter of Mrs. Kissner.
Mrs. James Hayes, 19, wife of James Hayes, 811 Franklin street.

THE INJURED.

Lavan Corwin, driver, 15 years old, son of Mrs. Corwin, and brother of Mrs. Kissner.

Five Lima persons, three adults and two children, and a 15-year-old boy internally injured, when the Chevrolet touring car in which they were riding was struck by an east-bound Western Ohio passenger car at 6:30 last night, at the crossing just a short distance from Bluffton. All of the persons killed were from Lima and were enroute to their homes here, after visiting the Shrine of Lady of Consolation at Carey, Ohio, about 50 miles from here.

The annual pilgrimage to Carey was made yesterday, many Lima people motoring to the shrine. The members of the unfortunate auto party had stopped at the Gratz school house, a short distance from the Western Ohio tracks, for drinking water, and then proceeded on their way. The auto was driven by Lavan Corwin, 15-year-old son of Mrs. Margaret Corwin, 1061 Arch avenue, who was one of those killed.

Owing to a cornfield being located close to the tracks, the approach of the swiftly moving interurban car was obscured, and the auto had just reached the tracks when the car crashed into it. The Corwin boy was the only one of the six passengers that was not killed, and he was hurried free from the wreckage.

Instantly killed.
The other five victims were instantly killed, and their bodies mangled beyond recognition. Every one of the five suffered broken arms and legs and the baby daughter of Mrs. Kissner was terribly cut and mangled. The auto was completely demolished.

The crash of the auto being struck by the interurban brought William H. Stetler and Mrs. Louise Schaubert, both living near the crossing, to the scene of the fatal accident. The passengers from the interurban, which was stopped by Motorman Kelly about 20 feet from the crossing, got out, but shrank back when they saw the mangled bodies lying in the roadway.

A Bluffton undertaker, called by farmers, started to remove the bodies, but was stopped by a railroad official, who called ambulances and bearers from Lima.

The bodies of the unfortunate victims were removed to the Williams & Davis morgue here.

News of the fatal accident quickly reached Lima, and dozens of persons who had relatives visiting the shrine yesterday, were frantic until they found out the names of the unfortunate victims. Hundreds of persons visited the morgue last night and today to view the bodies, but last night were kept away by police who had been called to see that no mob curiosity seekers were admitted.

The interurban car was in charge of Motorman Kelly of Wapakoneta, according to officials of the Western Ohio. The interurban crew had left the scene of the accident before Coroner Adams was called, an inquest will be held, but it is probable that the verdict will be accidental death. Dr. Adams was at the city hospital today performing several operations and could not be reached.

Members of St. John's
All of the members of the auto party were members of the St. John's Catholic church where double funeral services will be held Monday morning. Mrs. Kissner and infant daughter will be buried together while the little Kissner boy and his grandmother Mrs. Corwin will occupy the same coffin. Requiem high mass for these four will be celebrated, Monday morning at 8 in Gethsemani cemetery:

Kelley, corner of Jackson and McKibben streets.

Mrs. Corwin was the wife of Douglas Corwin, a switchman for the Lake Erie railroad. Her daughter Mrs. Kissner was the wife of Nicholas J. Kissner, a foreman at the Lake Erie shops. They made their home with Mrs. Kissner's parents Mr. and Mrs. Corwin. The injured driver was the young son of Mrs. Corwin and a brother of Mrs. Kissner. Several other children with the husband are left to mourn the death of Mrs. Corwin. Mrs. Kissner only had two children, both getting killed.

Mrs. Hayes, the wife of James Hayes, 811 East Franklin street, was an intimate friend of Mrs. Corwin, and had gone with them to the Shrine Friday morning. The auto was owned by the Corwin family. Besides the husband, three daughters are left to mourn her death. They are Nellie, at home; Sister Ruth Marie, of Dayton, and Miss Clara Hayes, a trained nurse at St. Vincent's hospital. Sister Ruth Marie and Miss Clara Hayes had just returned to Dayton and Toledo, after visiting their mother, when word was sent them of her tragic death.

Mrs. Hayes was a member of the L. C. B. A. and Christian Mothers Society of St. John's church. Requiem high mass for her will be celebrated at 9 o'clock Monday morning in hour following the services for the other auto victims.

OHIO ELECTRIC CO. DECLINES TO RUN U. S. MAIL CARS

Strikers Expressed Willingness to Comply With Request of P. O.

ALL QUIET IN LIMA

Unions Hold Sessions But Refuse to Disclose Their Pans

Both parties concerned in the strike of the Ohio Electric Railway Company, which was affected Thursday at midnight, and which has affected practically the entire railway system, are sitting quiet, and neither are making any concessions to the other. Not a car has left the barn since the men walked out Thursday, and officials of the company declare no attempt will be made to run the cars until the affair is settled to the satisfaction of both parties.

Refusal late Friday night, of company's officials to operate mail cars unless it can carry out its entire schedule, was a clog in the machine which would have partially broken the strike today. Government postal authorities endeavored to persuade officials of the company to run mail cars. Had this been done a few of the trainmen would have gone back on their runs.

However, officials refused this request and stated unless it can run cars on the regular schedule no mail cars will be operated. The strikers, it is understood, have agreed to operate the mail cars. Dana Stetens, vice-president of the company, last night stated, as far as he knows, the company will make no effort to operate any cars until the strike has been settled.

No Trouble Expected
No trouble of any kind has been anticipated by local authorities and with the exception of the patrolman on his regular beat, none has been assigned to special duty at the car barn. An agreement was reached before hand police officials state, whereby the company was not to endeavor to operate any cars on the city lines until the strike has been settled. Police have no fear of a repetition of the last street car strike in this city.

Nothing that transpired in the meeting held late yesterday of the trainmen in their chapel has been made public. However, J. J. Pogue, president of the local Union, stated, the situation has been thoroughly discussed, and plans for the future, in case the strike lasts, have been made. Just what these plans are is not definitely known.

Strikers Confident
The striking workmen are not congregating in any one place today. On every corner, however, groups of the strikers may be seen in conversation. They all seem confident the company will accede to their demands.

That the interurban strike has no bearing whatsoever on the line's strike was shown this morning by officials of the company, who stated they have word to the effect that either party will return to work without the other should the requests be granted.

However, it is plainly seen, citizens contend, that the line's men were simply waiting to see what would be done by the trainmen before any definite move was made.

Citizens of Lima are talking about another arbitration committee hearing the arguments so both sides in an effort to effect an early settlement. This can hardly be done in Lima, officials state, as the strike situation is being handled from the Springfield office.

NOTABLE INCREASE IN CITY SCHOOLS SHOWN IN REPORT

A notable increase in all departments of the city schools is shown in the annual school report of Superintendent J. C. Chlins made to the board of education. Enrollment statistics show that last year's registration was 509 in advance of the previous year and practically 2000 in advance of five years ago. Increased enrollment of out of town pupils together with a pro rata tuition charge has caused a material increase in the revenue coming to the schools from tuition sources.

Last year $8,205.50 was collected in fees, an amount almost $2,000 more than the previous year and practically $7,000 more than the corresponding period seven years ago. In the matter of outside school support more than $20,000 has come to the board of education for school purposes thru the special provisions of the Smith Hughes act providing for Vocational training and from the list of local industries which have contributed on the basis of $4 per employee to the fund for providing machine equipment in the high school for industrial training.

The total amount paid for instruction purposes has been $171,955.15 for the past year, that figure including the cost of maintaining the two playgrounds during the summer.

JORDAN CAR IS THE ONE THAT HAS A "ZIPPY" APPEARANCE

Have you noticed that particularly "zippy" looking car about the streets of Lima? We mean that car of which you see a few new ones every day? Yes, that's right, it's a Jordan. The agents inform us they are selling faster in Lima than they can be delivered. However, a number are expected to arrive here sometime this coming week, they say, and then the trade may be taken care of.

The Jordan has had a wonderful growth this season. Last year, while it was practically new, in these parts, the sales surpassed all expectations, and then those sales that were made were the best advertisements. As a result there have been thousands sold this season.

A cheaper car which is going like the proverbial hot cakes, handled by the same concern is the Allen. The little fellow has made a wonderful hit with citizens of Allen county, and it meets with the extreme approbation of all users. Both these cars are handled by The Lima Jordan Company.

Do You Want Perfect, Pearly Teeth

If you do the saliva must be alkaline. Nature intended it so in order to help digest your food. Many people unknowingly suffer with acid mouth, decay sets in, the enamel of the teeth is attacked, the gums recede, frequently bleed and the teeth become yellow. To counteract these disagreeable conditions, use

Keltner's Specially Prepared Chlorate of Potash Tooth Paste
In time and you will have perfect pearly teeth, hard gums, the enamel will be protected and the natural alkaline condition of the mouth will be restored. Price of large sized tube, 35c. For sale only at the

FOOD SUPPLIES THAT CAN BE ORDERED THRU P. O.

Your postmaster is now your grocer. As anticipated for some time, postal authorities have taken over the food supply of the army and it will be distributed to citizens through their local postoffices, according to further announcements made today by Postmaster James M. Sullivan.

For the past few months municipalities have been purchasing this food in carload lots, and selling it to citizens. Lima some days ago ordered two carloads, but the postal order superseded the one placed by city officials, and as a result if localities desire the army food they will have to enter their respective orders through the postoffice.

At first it was understood the order would have to be placed at the postoffice, but today Mr. Sullivan announces the postmen on the various routes will take orders. These will be forwarded to the nearest supply station and the food returned by parcel post. Your money or equivalent must accompany each order, the postmaster said.

It is thought that in this manner the high cost of many foods will be reduced, wherein it would not have been had the two carloads been sold here. As it stands now citizens may purchase this food whenever needed, where had the cars been shipped they could only have purchased while the car lasted.
